ALLIES HOLD GERMANS AT BAY---ASSAULTS CONTINUE

Major Part of Small Gains Made by Enemy in Initial Phase Recovered--His Losses Are Again Appalling--Failure Forecast and All Allied Capitals Confident.

London, July 16.—American troops are engaged with the Germans over an eight mile front between Vaux and Cheesy and Naria Chappelle, on the Marne front, according to information secured by the International News Service this afternoon. The entire German offensive has been checked, it was stated. The news at mid-day was that the Germans were evidently bringing up their artillery. The Germans have been unable to penetrate the Allies battle positions anywhere.

The next two days should show whether or not the Germans will abandon their latest offensive. A third of Prince Rupprecht's reserves have been withdrawn from the Amiens sector and the divisions have been identified.

The titanic battle which burst forth with volcanic fury on the fifty-mile Marne-Champagne front, with the opening of the fifth German offensive was still raging today.

The violence of the combat had died down at some points, but where the infantry forces were not locked in death grips terrific artillery duels were rocking earth and sky.

The Allied lines are holding at all points. The Americans by a series of savage counter attacks south of the Marne have hurled the Germans across to the northern bank of the stream, occupying all of their old positions, according to an unofficial report from London this afternoon.

Appalling losses marked the first day of the new German drive. The Germans had set out to break through, between Chateau Thierry and the Argonne forest, but the maximum of their gains was about three miles and the major part of the German gains at frightful cost was wrenched from them by smashing counter blows, delivered by the French, Americans and Italians.

South of the Marne the Germans were able to establish their line through St. Agnon, La Chappelle, Monthalen and the southern fringe of Bouquigny Wood. This is from two to three miles south of the river. To the north of the Marne in the district between the river and Rheims, the Germans redoubled their efforts in an effort to extend the slight gain they had scored up until late Monday afternoon. They hurled themselves in vain against the Allied resistance.

A bitter struggle developed around Chailion-Sur-Marne, where the exhausted German hordes had to withstand stern counter assaults after their direct attacks had failed.

East of Rheims in the Champagne, where the German casualties were frightfully heavy, two strong German assaults were delivered between Prunay and Souain, the infantry being supported by tanks. The Germans were thrown back except at one point, where they succeeded in penetrating a portion of the wooded ground near Prunay.

Over the greater part of the Champagne the Germans fought themselves into such an utter state of weariness, that they could not renew their pressure.

Thirty-five German divisions were massed on the Marne river between Chateau Thierry and Bormans, facing the Americans. Thirty of the German divisions on this and other parts of the wide battlefield were part of the reserve army of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, the German commander on the Flanders front. This indicated that the present offensive was expected to be the supreme German effort and other parts of the western front had been drained of all available men to give the latest thrust the utmost momentum.

It had been known that Rupprecht had a large number of reserve troops, but it was expected that they would be used in another dash for the channel ports. Evidently the German high command elected to use them for another effort to break through to Paris.

Documentary evidence captured from German prisoners show that they hoped to break through to Epernay and to Châlons in the first dash of their new drive. Never have executions fallen more fast.

As the situation stood today the fifth German drive may be characterized as another German failure. Although the Marne-Champagne offensive was undertaken with greater preparation than any of the preceding four drives on the western front this year, less ground was gained on the first day, than in any of the previous strokes.

If events show that Ludendorff's new attempt proves another fiasco such as marked the recent ill-starred Austrian blow in Italy, it will be a hard blow to Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The new offensive is not over. The German high command will not give up so easily. The Germans may have large masses of reserves in the rear and it is known that they are supplied with enough masses of artillery. It will be several days before it can be seen how the first phase of the new grand operations is likely to develop.

It is interesting to note how the first day of the German offensive has compared with others this year. On March 21, when the Germans attacked on a fifty mile front, on the Picardy front, they gained slightly more than three miles the first day. On April 9, when the Flanders offensive was begun on a 30-mile front, the Germans made four miles the initial day.

On May 27 when the Aisne-Marne blow fell over a 25-mile front the Germans advanced five miles the first day.

On June 9, when the Germans struck between Montdidier and the Aisne the first day's fighting carried them forward three miles.

Thus the failure of the present offensive can be measured.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

PRIVATE JOSEPH HINKLEY
Company L, 310th Infantry, now in France. Home at Leibhardt.

Word has been received in this city that Philip J. Beichert, who enlisted in the Engineering Corps on May 27, has been promoted to corporal.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIntyre, formerly of Kingston, but now of Union Hill, N. J., have received word of the safe arrival overseas of their son, Samuel A. McIntyre, who enlisted in the 1st Co., C. A. C. of New Jersey, a year ago.

Inquiring friends will be glad to learn that Lieut. R. Frederick Childsey is able to be out of the hospital and has been transferred to Camp Humphreys, Va. Lieut. Childsey suffered injuries when he was thrown from horseback a few weeks ago while at Camp Dix. Mrs. Childsey is living in Washington, D. C., which is about 20 miles north of the camp, but which is the nearest city to camp.

Chester Britt Ribbenary of Kingston has been commissioned 2nd Lieutenant, Q. M. C. N. A. Lieutenant Ribbenary left Kingston with the second contingent for Camp Dix, N. J., September 29th of last year, and served over seven months there in the National Army. He was rapidly promoted, soon after his arrival being made a corporal, and later appointed sergeant. As a non-commissioned officer he served as drill instructor and for three months as an instructor in automatic arms and machine guns. For the last two months he has been taking a course in government finance at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Florida, and his commission is the result of the successful completion of this course.

WASHINGTON SURE OF THE OUTCOME

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 16.—Supremely confident of the final outcome of the great battle now in progress in France, war department officials today were optimistic from the scanty reports available.

The outcome still remains in doubt. It will be so for several days very likely. But the military experts are unanimous in their belief that the Germans are being held and that their losses to date are serious, and are the largest of any attempt so far.

In killed and wounded are these losses measured, but, due to the various counter attacks, it is evident that their loss in prisoners is heavy also.

The regular army division of the United States Army with the Marines are bearing the brunt of the fighting, it is understood here.

These corps comprises among the best in our service and they have shown that they outclassed the picked German shock troops by the manner in which they have thrown back the various attacks and then, counter attacking, have been able to recover all their lost ground and to take prisoners and war materials as they moved on.

One reason for the intense interest in the present struggle is the belief of army experts here—American as well as Entente—that the battle which marks the Germans being held without appreciably gaining of ground, or even thrown back in their tracks, will mean the breaking down of the German offensive.

Officers say that it may not be that this effort will mark that point. They do not know whether General Foch has sufficient men available to make the sacrifices necessary to gain that point and at the same time retain sufficient forces to protect all other parts of his long line.

But the day is certain to come—and the officers are hopeful that it may be in the present struggle—when the German offensive will crumble to bits on the defenses of the Entente. And that will mark the turning point in the war, these military experts explain, as the Germans must inevitably lose morale the moment they are forced to assume the defensive.

There is understood here to be a few French and American and several regiments of Italian troops engaged in the present attempt. It is believed here that the present struggle soon will spread to the north where the British and Belgian armies are holding the lines. It was pointed out here today that the real reason why the Germans made their present effort, where they did not undoubtedly was due to their belief that the lines there were not strongly held. And in this certain officers who have closely followed the situation, declare that General Foch has outguessed the Germans. There is not the slightest element of surprise in the present assault. It was made just where the French generalissimo expected that it would be made and he had his various units properly disposed to handle the attack when it came.

Should the Germans be unable to gain ground toward Paris, they undoubtedly will renew their drive on the Channel ports, the army experts here say. And the British army officers who are here and who are in every way familiar with the general situation explain that this drive also will prove futile. By widespread "nibbling" operations the British army has straightened out its line at all points and is ready to meet any assault in force.

Irish Should Enlist.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Boston, July 16.—Thomas Ward, of Brighton, Irish and proud of it, has enlisted at the British and Canadian recruiting headquarters here. "I went to a meeting of the Cork Association," Ward told the recruiting officer, "and we had a discussion about Irishmen in this war. I told them that every Irishman who keeps out of this war should be ashamed of himself, and to prove that I am sincere I have come to enlist. Give me something active. He is going in the tanks."

Aviator Buried Abroad.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, July 16.—Aviator Vernon Booth of Chicago, a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, who died in a Scottish hospital at the front from an amputation of the leg, has been buried with military honors. Booth's machine crashed down following a fight with a German.

American Line In tact.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, July 16 (1 p. m.).—The Americans between Fossey and Crezanay have retaken all their former positions from the Germans on the southern bank of the Marne river, the Internal News Service learned this afternoon, from an authoritative source.

Return Dutch Ships?

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, July 16.—The United States is considering the return to Holland of some of the requisitioned Dutch shipping before the end of the war, according to the newspaper Telegraaf.

Picnic at the Point.

The Girl Scouts of the North Reformed Church of Watervliet held their annual outing today at Kingston Point Park, coming by the line of the Hudson River Day Line.

GERMANS SUSTAIN TERRIFIC LOSSES

In Fifth Offensive—Paris Press Wildly Enthusiastic Over Manner in Which Americans Beat Pick of German Troops.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, July 16.—Terrific losses marked the fifth German offensive on the Marne-Champagne front, which began yesterday morning.

Before noon on Monday four German divisions that attacked the French, Americans and Italian lines between Chateau Thierry and the Argonne forest, had been wiped up and one was completely annihilated.

The all-day battle on Monday, in which Americans gained distinction by throwing the Germans out of Vaux and by hurling the Germans back across the Marne river, was followed by violent artillery duels.

All night long many residents of Paris remained upon the roof tops listening to the thunder of the great guns fifty miles away and watching the lightning-like flashes in the sky.

The Germans made a few insignificant gains, but in practically every instance were thrown back to their old positions.

Between Germans on the Marne river, and Rheims, the Franco-Italian forces lost only 500 yards at the greatest depth, but they immediately launched a series of savage counter attacks and at latest reports were retreating all they had been compelled to give up.

The French commanders, knowing in advance of the immense offensive "jumped" the German artillery an hour before the bombardment, preliminary to the development of the attacks.

Hard fighting developed east of Rheims in the sector of Souain. There the forefield in front of the French positions were piled high with German corpses. Allied artillery and machine gun fire played havoc with Ludendorff's columns everywhere.

The Parisian press today wildly acclaimed the American victory between Reully and Dormans on the southern bank of the Marne, where Ludendorff's best troops, advancing on a six-mile front to the principal attack west of Rheims, were driven back.

"The Americans fought with the valor of tigers," declared Col. De Thomassin. He added that the German journalists would ever regret the snobishness with which the American's fighting qualities.

"The magnificent Americans saved what would have been a dangerous enemy success," concluded the paper.

Paris newspapers carry page wide cartoons of Americans bayoneting and smashing Boche skulls with the butts of their rifles—the papers getting the idea from a telegraphed description of the American fighting, "which covered a front of ten miles to a depth of six miles with German corpses."

To Confer on Recent Drive

The High Command Will Get Information from Kingston's Two W. S. S. Leaders at a Dinner With Chief Tomorrow.

William J. Tully, commander in chief of the N. Y. State Corps of the United States Army of War Savers, will sit down to a victory feed at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, tomorrow, with his "chief of staff," "lieutenants," "brigadier generals" and "colonels."

It is not developed yet that any officer lower on the ladder than colonel will be included in that military circle. In his invitation reaching Brigadier General Brunner and Col. DeWitt he says he wants to meet those who have shown great success in the recent drive. Presumably the feed.

It can be well understood by The Freeman readers that these two masters of war savings stamps strategy are supposedly filled to the brim with real good material.

These New York state patriots with others from other counties discuss the several features that have made their counties large revenue counties in the late drive.

Ulster's representatives will tell how every interest with any organization helped in Ulster county; how the Red Cross, K. of C. and Y. M. C. A. workers gave their time to support the W. S. S. drive; how the many church societies piled into it; how the greatest army of workers was formed by draft and set at work getting in the funds; also how the drive was conducted in a business way—no dinners, no speeches, which are always the strongest sort of appeal to men after a hard day's work.

More interesting information will be handed to the general in which it will be shown that Ulster actually leads the Hudson river counties—even New York county—in percentage in these drives; and none the least in the last campaign.

Further interesting news will be handed the general across the table in which it will be shown that Ulster has no slackers, a most curious and a hardly credible statement.

Taking the July 1st order from Washington with all other attempts to mobilize men and dollars, Ulster will be shown by the W. S. S. dromedians to have marched in the front with fewer slackers than other counties.

ROBERTS HAS BEEN SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Popular Local Man Believed to Have Taken Part in Brilliant Repulse of Kaiser's Shock Troops.

George Roberts, who lived at the corner of Delaware avenue and North street, this city, has been seriously wounded in action according to a telegram received by his mother from the war department at Washington. It is presumed that he participated in the early stages of the present burst of fighting in which the American forces have lived up to their best traditions. He left Kingston with the first contingent of drafted men in September. He had been a captain of one of Hutton & Company's barges and according to acquaintances was a stand-up, two-fisted fighter.

NO SUGAR ON BAKERY PRODUCTS

Bakers are prohibited from using sugar for icing or sprinkling on the tops of all bakery products.

The reason for this action is the necessity for conserving sugar for essential uses.

W. C. SHAFER, Food Administrator for Ulster Co.

Troy Germania Doomed.

Troy, N. Y., July 16.—Columbia has replaced Germania at the pinnacle of Germania Hall in Troy. The hall used for twenty-five years as a meeting place of the German societies of Troy, will hereafter be known as Columbia Hall. With black and tangle the big bronze figure of Germania was taken down. The Germania Hall Association will offer the figure, which weighs nearly a ton and cost more than $1,500 to the government to be used in manufacturing bullets or for other war purposes.

Pardon Day.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, July 16.—Gov. Whitman had 27 applications for pardons from prison terms before him this afternoon at his monthly "pardon day" hearing.

NO NEWS FROM NORTH RUSSIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 16.—No additional details of the American-Anglo forces on the Murman coast of Russia reached here today. It is certain that the forces there are sufficiently strong to maintain their positions against any possible German assault. The Entente forces are made up of picked men, while the German units, although outnumbering them greatly, are for the most part Landsturm troops.

Details of the American troops are still withheld. The Russian situation continues to occupy the attention of President Wilson. It is understood that every possible opportunity is being given the anti-German part of Russia to act. Officials are confident that within a short time a formidable anti-German, anti-Bolshevik organization will come into being in Russia, backed by the conservative social revolutionists.

Red Cross First Aid News.

The first meeting of the Red Cross First Aid Class to be held in Ponckhook will be held this evening at Cordis House at 8 o'clock. Every member of this class is expected to be present at this first meeting.

Tomorrow, Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the second First Aid Class will be organized at the armory. It is important that all members of this class attend the organization meeting.

Record Truck Run.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, July 16.—Making a record non-stop run of 785 miles from Akron, Ohio, in sixty-one and one-half hours, five motor trucks carrying 72 Boy Scouts from the Ohio city, arrived here today, eight hours ahead of their schedule.

Two Killed in Wreck.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 16.—Fireman Charles Lamake was instantly killed and Engineer Matison died later when an empty troop train passed a blind switch in the Sunny Side yards of the Long Island Railroad and plunged down the eighty-two feet deep Pennsylvania cut early today.

VON HINTZ WILL VISIT NORWAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Copenhagen, July 16.—Admiral Van Hintz, the newly appointed German foreign secretary, will be received in audience by King Haakon of Norway, at Christiansia tomorrow, said a dispatch from that city today. The object of the visit is to establish better relations between Germany and Norway, it is said.

PRIVATE JOSEPH HINKLEY
Company L, 310th Infantry, now in France. Home at Lehigh.

Word has been received in this city that Philip J. Beichert, who enlisted in the Engineering Corps on May 27, has been promoted to corporal.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIntyre, formerly of Kingston, but now of Union Hill, N. J., have received word of the safe arrival overseas of their son, Samuel A. McIntyre, who enlisted in the 1st Co., C. A. C. of New Jersey, a year ago.

Inquiring friends will be glad to learn that Lieut. R. Frederick Chidsey is able to be out of the hospital and has been transferred to Camp Humphreys, Va. Lieut. Chidsey suffered injuries when he was thrown from horseback a few weeks ago while at Camp Dix, N. J. Chidsey is living in Washington, D. C., which is about 20 miles north of the camp, but which is the nearest city to camp.

Chester Britt Rifenbary of Kingston has been commissioned 2nd Lieutenant, Q. M. C., N. A. Lieutenant Rifenbary left Kingston with the second contingent for Camp Dix, N. J., September 29th of last year, and served over seven months there in the National Army.

He was rapidly promoted, soon after his arrival being made a corporal and then, appointed sergeant. As a non-commissioned officer he served as drill instructor and for three months as an instructor in automatic arms and machine guns. For the last two months he has been taking a course in government finance at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Florida, and his commission is the result of the successful completion of this course.

WASHINGTON SURE OF THE OUTCOME

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, July 16.—Supremely confident of the final outcome of the great battle now in progress in France, war department officials today were optimistic from the scanty reports available.

The outcome still remains in doubt. It will be so for several days very likely. But the military experts are unanimous in their belief that the Germans are being held and that their losses to date are serious, and are the largest of any attempt so far.

In killed and wounded are these losses measured, but, due to the various counter attacks, it is evident that their loss in prisoners is heavy also.

The regular army division of the United States Army with the Marines are bearing the brunt of the fighting. It is understood here.

These corps comprises among the best in our service and they have shown that they outlasted the picked German shock troops by the manner in which they have thrown back the various attacks and then, counter attacking, have been able to recover all their lost ground and to take prisoners and war materials as they moved on.

One reason for the intense interest in the present struggle is the belief in army experts here—American as well as Entente—that the battle which marks the Germans being held without appreciably gaining of ground, or even thrown back in their tracks, will mean the breaking down of the German offensive.

Officers say that it may not be that this effort will mark that point. They do not know whether General Poch has sufficient men available to make the sacrifices necessary to gain that point and at the same time retain sufficient forces to protect all other parts of his long line.

But the day is certain to come—and the officers are hopeful that it may be in the present struggle—when the German offensive will crumble to bits on the defenses of the Entente. And that will mark the turning point in the war, these military experts explain, as the Germans must inevitably lose morale the moment they are forced to assume the defensive.

There is understood here to be a few French and American, and several regiments of Italian troops engaged in the present attempt. It is believed here that the present struggle soon will spread to the north where the British and Belgian armies are holding the lines. It was pointed out here today that the real reason why the Germans made their present effort where they did undoubtedly was due to their belief that the lines there were not strongly held. And in this certain officers who have closely followed the situation, declare that General Poch has outguessed the Germans. There is not the slightest element of surprise in the present assault. It was made just where the French generalissimo expected that it would be made and he had his various units properly disposed to handle the attack when it came.

Should the Germans be unable to gain ground toward Paris, they undoubtedly will renew their drive on the Channel ports, the army experts here say. And the British army officers who are here and who are in every way familiar with the general situation explain that this drive also will prove futile. By widespread "nibbling" operations the British army has straightened out its line at all points and is ready to meet any assault in force.

Irish Should Enlist.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Boston, July 16.—Thomas Ward, of Brighton, Irish and proud of it, has enlisted at the British and Canadian recruiting headquarters here. "I went to a meeting of the Cork Association," Ward told the recruiting officer, "and we had a discussion about Irishmen in this war. I told them that every Irishman who keeps out of this war should be ashamed of himself, and to prove that I am sincere I have come to enlist. Give me something active. He is going in the tanks."

Aviator Buried Abroad.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, July 16.—Aviator Vernon Booth of Chicago, a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, who died in a Scottish hospital at the front from an amputation of the leg, has been buried with military honors. Booth's machine crashed down following a fight with a German.

American Line Intact.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, July 16 (1 p. m.)—The Americans between Fosse and Crezancy have retaken all their former positions on the Marne river, the Internal News Service learned this afternoon, from an authoritative source.

Return Dutch Ships?

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Amsterdam, July 16.—The United States is considering the return to Holland of some of the requisitioned Dutch shipping before the end of the war, according to the newspaper Telegraaf.

Picnic at the Point.

The Girl Scouts of the North Reformed Church of Watervliet held their annual outing today at Kingston Park, coming by the down boat of the Hudson River Day Line.

GERMANS SUSTAIN TERRIFIC LOSSES

In Fifth Offensive—Paris Press Wildly Enthusiastic Over Manner in Which Americans Beat Back German Troops.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, July 16.—Terrific losses marked the fifth German offensive on the Marne-Champagne front, which began yesterday morning.

Before noon on Monday four German divisions that attacked the French, Americans and Italian lines between Chateau Thierry and the Argonne forest, had been cut up and one was completely annihilated.

The all-day battle on Monday, in which Americans gained distinction by throwing the Germans out of Vaux and by hurling the Germans back across the Marne river, was followed by violent artillery duels.

All night long many residents of Paris remained upon the roofs tops listening to the thunder of the great guns fifty miles away and watching the lightning-like flashes in the sky.

The Germans made a few insignificant gains, but in practically every instance were thrown back to their old positions.

Between Dormans, on the Marne river, and Rheims, the Franco-Italian forces lost only 500 yards at the greatest depth, but they immediately launched a series of savage counter attacks and at latest reports were retreating all they had been compelled to give up.

The French commanders, knowing in advance of the immense offensive "jumped" the German artillery an hour before the bombardment, preliminary to the development of the attacks.

Hard fighting developed east of Rheims in the sector of Souain. There the forefield in front of the French positions were piled high with German corpses. Allied artillery and machine gun fire played havoc with Ludendorff's columns everywhere.

The Parisian press today wildly acclaimed the American victory between Reuilly and Dormans on the southern bank of the Marne, where Ludendorff's best troops, advancing on a six-mile front to the principal attack west of Rheims, were driven back.

"The Americans fought with the valor of tigers," declared Col. De Thomassin. He added that the German journalists would ever regret the establishment of the American fighting qualities.

The magnificent Americans saved what would have been a dangerous enemy success," concluded the paper.

Paris newspapers carry page wide cartoons of Americans bayoneting and smashing Boche skulls with the butts of their rifles—the papers getting the idea from a telegraphed description of the American fighting, "which covered a front of ten miles to a depth of six miles with German corpses."

TO CONFER ON RECENT DRIVE

The High Command Will Get Information from Kingston's Two W. S. S. Leaders at a Dinner With Chief Tomorrow.

William J. Tully, commander in chief of the N. Y. State Corps of the United States Army of War Savers, will sit down to a victory feed at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, tomorrow, with his "chief of staff," "lieutenants," "brigadier generals" and "colonels."

It is not developed yet that any officer lower on the ladder than colonel will be included in that military circle. In his invitation reaching Brigadier General Brunner and Col. Dewitt he says he wants to meet those who have shown great success in the recent drive. Presumably the few.

It can be well understood by The Freeman readers that these two masters of war savings stamps strategy are supposedly filled to the brim with real good material.

These New York state patriots with others from other counties will discuss the several features that have made their counties large revenue counties in the late drive.

MIGNANO HAS SEVERAL DOUBLES?

Since Description of Alleged Murderer is Given in The Freeman Many Persons Think They Have Seen Him—Not Apprehended Yet.

Sam Mignano, the Italian, who is charged with the murder of Joe Motech, an Italian, at Malden last week, has not been apprehended. Officials of the sheriff's office have their net out for Mignano and expect that his capture is but a matter of a little time.

Since the description of Mignano was given in The Freeman many persons have telephoned to the sheriff's office that Mignano had been seen in certain places. These rumors, for such they proved to be, have all been thoroughly investigated.

Saturday afternoon some person phoned that a man answering the description of Mignano had been seen in the woods near Cementon. Deputy Sheriff Reynolds of Saugerties, investigated and found that the man referred to was a tramp. On Saturday morning another telephone call was received, telling of another man who looked like Mignano. Deputy Sheriff Reynolds investigated, at the request of the sheriff's office, and found the same man who he found in the woods the day before. This man gave his name as Sam Brown. He was arrested by Reynolds, arraigned before Justice of the Peace Childister of Saugerties, upon a charge of vagrancy, and given thirty days in the county jail.

Officials of the sheriff's office went to Glasco Sunday and interviewed several Italians relative to the history of Mignano. It was found out that he figured in a scrap of some kind in Newburgh about three years ago and skipped to Chicago for a time.

Three state troopers are now stationed at Malden.

BEEF ORDERS.

Restaurants May Sell the Meat Four Hours Each Day.

Hereafter, and until further notice, all hotels, restaurants and other public eating places, may serve beef during one meal of not more than four consecutive hours, on each day of the week, and these hours, to be at the option of the management of each such hotel, restaurant or other public eating place, shall be explicitly and prominently stated on each copy of each day's current bill of fare, and if, instead of a bill of fare changed each day, there be used a set bill of fare that shall contain a statement of the hours for each day of the week for which this set bill is to be used. This regulation does not, however, apply to beef by-products, all of which may be used at any meal on any day.

Work the Binder.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—The work or fight policy should be applied to farm machinery as well as to men, the United States department of agriculture suggests. Though machines can not fight they can be put to work on many occasions instead of standing idle in the barn lot. Most farm machines and implements are capable of doing much more work than they usually do, and the more they are used the less man labor will be required on the farm. Three men with a corn binder, one operating the machine and two gathering and shocking the bundles, will cut from seven to ten acres a day, while four or five acres would be a fair day's work for the same three men cutting corn by hand.

The average corn binder lasts about 11 years, but during that time does only about 40 days' actual work. The department specialists point out. There is no doubt that it could render several times this much service before wearing out if there were more work to do. These points are brought out in a bulletin soon to be published by the United States department of agriculture on the use of machinery in cutting corn. There seems to be very little relation, the bulletin says, between the amount of work done annually by a corn binder and the years of service.

Squaws to Study Foods.

Indian women on the Indian reservation near Syracuse, N. Y., have organized a study class under the leadership of the county home demonstration agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture. This is the outcome of a demonstration of canning and war cooking given recently by the agent at the reservation. The new organization will study foods and later on the women will receive instruction in sewing.

Canning Don'ts.

Don't mistake simmering water for boiling water. "It was boiling just a minute ago" doesn't meet the requirement of boiling water at the moment of using says a bulletin from the National War Garden Commission of Washington which will send anyone upon requests a free canning manual.

Leave it to a Hoosier to Outwit the Hun.

Indianapolis, Indiana, July 16.—According to F. M. Slayback, a former employee of the Diamond Chain and Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, there's more than one way to kill a Hun.

Slayback who is in France with the Engineers, writes of an unusual experience that not only demonstrates the resourcefulness of our boys "over there" but it also shows that the driving chains on motor trucks make good weapons in an emergency.

"Four of us were returning from a motor truck trip about dusk on an unmentionable though important mission—so important in fact to some of our comrades that we were forced to return to our base without rifles or ammunition. As it was a short distance comparatively, we did not realize this temporary lack of self-protection until we thought we saw, in the distance, a small bunch of 'square heads' evidently very much absorbed in something of intense interest to themselves.

"The first thought, to me at least, was to get under cover. We then shut off the engine after concealing ourselves and the truck behind a cluster of trees.

"Harry was with us and leave it to him to find a solution for most any problem. Anyway Harry suggested that if each of us would take a small piece of one of the truck's drive chains, they would make splendid substitutes for black jacks, if it were necessary to use them in this way.

"All of us got busy and had soon disconnected the chain (you know they are easily taken apart at the cotter pin connections.)

"We started out, under cover of growing darkness, each with our make-shift weapons. We crept along, noiselessly and unobserved for our little surprise party on the Boches.

"As it is to be expected the Boches started to play rough so there was nothing to do but to use our improvised black jacks in the hand-to-hand encounter that followed.

"The net results were one well-killed Hun, two with slightly disfigured craniums and two good runners who managed to escape. The undisturbed drive chain on the other side of the truck was sufficient to take us and our surprised prisoners into camp.

Short Measure Containers.

The Bureau of Markets is gradually eliminating all short-measure containers covered by the standard-container act, such as berry boxes and baskets, all baskets and Climax or grape baskets. Manufacturers are now making these in standard sizes and discontinuing the production of short or non-standard packages, even for local use, because most of the fruits and vegetables are shipped across state lines. Local supplies of short containers that were in stock at the time the act was passed are now almost exhausted and can be used locally only where state laws do not prohibit them. The present act is said to be but a beginning on standardizing packages and the investigations of the Bureau of Markets show the need of standardizing other containers such as the hamper, round baskets, and tomato carriers. Thirty different sizes of hampers have been found between the peck and the 1½ bushel sizes, while three sizes are said to be sufficient for the legitimate demands of the trade.

Oil Cleans Wood.

De Soto's Error.

May 24 is the anniversary of the landing of Ferdinand de Soto in Florida in 1539. He thought he was on the path to a fabled fountain, by battling in which he could regain his lost youth. Instead he found only morasses and impassable swamps.

MIGNANO HAS SEVERAL DOUBLES?

Since Description of Alleged Mur-derer is Given in The Freeman
Many Persons Think They Have Seen Him—Not Apprehended Yet.

Sam Mignano, the Italian, who is charged with the murder of Joe Motech, an Italian, at Malden last week, has not been apprehended.

Officials of the sheriff's office have their net out for Mignano and expect that his capture is but a matter of a little time.

Since the description of Mignano was given in The Freeman many persons have telephoned to the sheriff's office that Mignano had been seen in certain places. These rumors, for such they proved to be, have all been thoroughly investigated.

Saturday afternoon some person phoned that a man answering the description of Mignano had been seen in the woods near Cementon.

Deputy Sheriff Reynolds of Saugerties, investigated and found that the man referred to was a tramp. On Saturday morning another telephone call was received, telling of another man who looked like Mignano.

Deputy Sheriff Reynolds investigated, at the request of the sheriff's office, and found the same man who he found in the woods the day before. This man gave his name as Sam Brown.

He was arrested by Reynolds, arraigned before Justice of the Peace Childister of Saugerties, upon a charge of vagrancy, and given thirty days in the county jail.

Officials of the sheriff's office went to Glasco Sunday and interviewed several Italians relative to the history of Mignano. It was found out that he figured in a scrap of some kind in Newburgh about three years ago and skipped to Chicago for a time.

Three state troopers are now stationed at Malden.

BEEF ORDERS.

Restaurants May Sell the Meat Four Hours Each Day.

Hereafter, and until further notice, all hotels, restaurants and other public eating places, may serve beef during one meal of not more than four consecutive hours, on each day of the week, and these hours to be at the option of the management of each such hotel, restaurant or other public eating place, shall be explicitly and prominently stated on each copy of each day's current bill of fare, and if, instead of a bill of fare changed each day, there be used a set bill of fare that shall contain a statement of the hours for each day of the period for which this set bill is to be used.

This regulation does not, however, apply to beef by-products, all of which may be used at any meal on any day.

County.

Work the Binder.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—The work or light policy should be applied to farm machinery as well as to men, the United States department of agriculture suggests.
Though machines can not fight they can be put to work on many occasions instead of standing idle in the barn lot. Most farm machines and implements are capable of doing much more work than they usually do, and the more they are used the less man labor will be required on the farm. Three men with a corn binder, one operating the machine and two gathering and shocking the bundles, will cut from seven to ten acres a day, while four or five acres would be a fair day's work for the same three men cutting corn by hand.

The average corn binder lasts about 11 years, but during that time does only about 40 days' actual work, the department specialists point out. There is no doubt that it could render several times this much service before wearing out if there were more work to do. These points are brought out in a bulletin soon to be published by the United States department of agriculture on the use of machinery in cutting corn. There seems to be very little relation, the bulletin says, between the amount of work done annually by a corn binder and the years of service.

Squaws to Study Foods.

Indian women on the Indian reservation near Syracuse, N. Y., have organized a study class under the leadership of the county home demonstration agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture. This is the outcome of a demonstration of canning and war cooking given recently by the agent at the reservation. The new organization will study foods and later on the women will receive instruction in sewing.

Canning Don'ts.

Don't mistake simmering water for boiling water. "It was boiling" just a minute ago" doesn't meet the requirement of boiling water at the moment of using says a bulletin from the National War Garden Commission of Washington which will send anyone upon requests a free canning manual.

KINGSTON OPERA HOUSE.

NEW WEAPON.

Leave it to a Hoosier to Outwit the Hun.

Indianapolis, Indiana, July 16.— According to F. M. Slayback, a former employee of the Diamond Chain and Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, there's more than one way to kill a Hun.

Slayback who is in France with the Engineers, writes of an unusual experience that not only demonstrates the resourcefulness of our boys "over there" but it also shows that the driving chains on motor trucks make good weapons in an emergency.

"Four of us were returning from a motor truck trip about dusk on an unmemorable though important mission—so important in fact to some of our comrades that we were forced to return to our base without rifles or ammunition. As it was a short distance, comparatively, we did not realize this temporary lack of self-protection until we thought we saw, in the distance, a small bunch of 'square heads' evidently very much absorbed in something of intense interest to themselves.

"The first thought, to me at least, was to get under cover. We then shut off the engine after concealing ourselves and the truck behind a cluster of trees.

"Harry was with us—and leave it to him to find a solution for most any problem. Anyway Harry suggested that if each of us would take a small piece of one of the truck's drive chains, they would make splendid substitutes for black jacks, if it were necessary to use them in this way.

"All of us got busy and had soon disconnected the chain (you know they are easily taken apart at the cotter pin connectors.)

"We started out, under cover of growing darkness, each with our make-shift weapons. We crept along, noiselessly and unobserved for our little surprise party on the Boches.

"As is to be expected the Boches started to play rough so there was nothing to do but to use our improvised black jacks in the hand-to-hand encounter that followed.

"The net results were of well-killed Hun, two with slightly disfigured craniums and two good runners who managed to escape. The undisturbed drive chain on the other side of the truck was sufficient to take us and our surprised prisoners into camp.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, July 15.—Harold Brady of Albany spent the Fourth of July with his parents.

Miss Maud Kiersted of Saugerties spent Sunday with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Felter and family of Danbury, Conn., have returned home having spent the past week with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Longendyke

day.

Miss Mildred York of Saugerties is spending her summer vacation with her grandparents.

Mr. Wolston had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow the last week.

Miss Josephine Short and friends of Long Island City, having spent her vacation with her grandmother, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Felter and family of Kingston spent Sunday with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Browning and family, George Carle of New York city, the Misses Annie and Nettie Russell, of West Hurley, called on friends in this place on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Jason Longendyke, Mrs.
Emery York, and Miss Mary J.

day.

John Mazzei has returned home from a visit with his father in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Aken and daughter, Hester, of Kingston were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eckert on Sunday.

Joseph Corby, of the U. S. Navy, is spending a 30 days' furlough with his mother, Mrs. Mary Corby.

Frank St. John of New York city was the guest of Miss Bessie Freer a few days last week.

Short Measure Containers.

The Bureau of Markets is gradually eliminating all short-measure containers covered by the standard-container act, such as berry boxes and baskets, fill baskets, and Climax or grape baskets. Manufacturers are now making these in standard sizes and discontinuing the production of short or non-standard packages, even for local use, because most of the fruits and vegetables are shipped across state lines. Local supplies of short containers that were in stock at the time the act was passed are now almost exhausted and can be used locally only where state laws do not prohibit them. The present act is said to be a beginning of standardizing packages and the investigations of the Bureau of Markets show the need of standardizing other containers such as the hamper, ratty baskets, and tomato carriers.
Thirty different sizes of hampers have been found between the peck and the 1½ bushel sizes, while three sizes are said to be sufficient for the legitimate demands of the trade.

Salvationists Raise Silk Worms.

An annual silk camp for the cultivation of the silkworm has been established by the Salvation Army in a hore, India.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 16, 1918

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT.

There is a very old principle founded in the human experience of the ages to which Abraham Lincoln gave homely expression in a phrase to the effect that it is not wise to swap horses in the middle of the stream. Col. George Harvey had this principle in mind when some weeks ago he proposed that Democrats and Republicans eliminate from Congressional contests all districts where the majority of the sitting member was large two years ago, or as much as three thousand. The only exception was to be in case the sitting man was not 100 per cent loyal, in which case an amicable adjustment was to be made by sending a new candidate. When the proposition was made, with the Congressional elections still months off, both National Chairmen accepted it in a patriotic and friendly spirit. They cautiously waited, however, doing nothing, and now all over the country contests for the nominations are going on as usual, as if no such proposition had been approved.

If Col. Harvey's plan had been adopted in practice, there would have been contests in only about a hundred districts, with ability to forward war work legislation as the only issue. As the matter stands, the country has merely approved the idea in theory while declining to follow it in practice. This means simply that the human nature of peace times is not changed by war as we now face or believe that we face. There is not sufficient doubt as to the outcome—the country is not frightened enough—for it to be possible to induce politicians and political leaders to go practically out of business. This might be done if the Huns were in possession of New York and were hammering at the gates of Washington, but, under the present circumstances, it is too much to expect.

There is no form of German propaganda more subtle or more dangerous than that which seeks to create sympathy for individual Germans through stories and plays. Such a play was "The Little Belgian," which the producer dropped when its influence was brought to his attention. Another is "The Unbeliever," a photoplay which has been going the rounds of small communities. In this the author, misreading the abnormal situation created by the monstrous methods of the Germans, sought to minimize the human tendency toward race prejudice as applied to the Germans. There can be no doubt that race prejudice is a monstrous evil and one which is unfortunately rampant in this country. But this is not the time to make a fight against it in favor of the German people. The first duty of every American is to realize that the German people, as led by the Kaiser, is no more than a ravaging horde, which must be decisively beaten. So far as the Germans who uphold the Kaiser, which means practically all the Germans living in Germany, are concerned, we can have but one feeling. They are our enemies and will continue so until we have brought them to their senses, and this will not happen, as is unfortunately too evident, until we have secured a decisive victory. Any paltering of these facts at this time means a distinct weakening of the American morale.

No better definition of the real object of this great war has been given than that of President Wilson when he said at Washington's tomb that "what we seek is the reign of law based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind." Most of us thought—with a western hemisphere of republics and constitutional government established in the greater part of Europe—that the civilized world already possessed precisely that, but the modern Hun has dispelled this illusion.

Bagdad now has electric lights, a police force and fire department, hurrying automobiles and a free and thriving business life. This is not because our old friend Aladdin of "Arabian Nights" memory has rubbed his magic lamp but because the British have driven out the Turks.

No doubt German militarism still has something up its sleeve, but we may be reasonably confident that the check received by the Kaiser's legions everywhere on the west front is to be interpreted as the beginning of the end.

There is significance in the fact that the French franc (20 cents) is now worth more than the German mark (25 cents), but the situation will not be quite what it should be until the Kaiser begins to look like 30 cents.

Holland takes our wheat, agreeing to eat it, and then gives its potatoes to Germany. We need all our wheat at home except what we must ship to our allies. Who wants to eat "war bread" in order that Holland may feed Germany on potatoes?

Bastille Day at St. James.

The very large congregation that filled St. James's Methodist Church Sunday night, a gathering remarkable for the time of the year, was in itself a fine tribute to France. The service was the celebration of the fall of the Bastille, and the outpouring of the people was proof that America had not forgotten the debt to France, her former and her present ally. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags, the French flag draped in front of the pulpit. The singing was excellent, and all enjoyed the rendering of the Marseillaise, which made the heart beat a little faster. The preacher, Dr. Baragwanath, after telling of our lasting debt to France, told the story of the Bastille, which was the very embodiment of the tyranny of feudalism and of the absolutism of the king, who ruled by divine right. When the Bastille, the grim and ghastly monster, fell, it struck terror to the heart of Louis the king, while it meant to the people the first taste of the sweet waters of freedom. The speaker told of his emotions when for the first time he stood in the Place de la Bastille and thought of the rivers of tears that had been shed there, the untold agony that had been endured there, and the uncounted lives that had been offered on the altar of autonomy. He described the splendid monument that now occupies the spot where the prison once stood—the monument is crowned with a figure representing the genius of liberty standing on a globe. With one hand she holds the broken chains of slavery, and with the other a shield, emblem of the spirit of liberty. The preacher exclaimed with fervor, "Thank God, the keys of that vile prison now hang in the Washington home at Mt. Vernon!" Dr. Baragwanath paid a very fine tribute to France. "Once we somewhat unjustly spoke of her as decadent France, but now with unbounded pride and admiration we speak of her as 'Glorious France'—France which since the miracle of the battle of the Marne has stood unseparated and unafraid—France, which is as lovely in her sacrificial robes as, like a priestess, she ministers at the world's altar, as are the lilies embroidered on her beautiful banners. If she did forsake her God and follow man-made policies, then in her Gethsemane amid the gloom and pain, she has once more clutched the flowers of spiritual worship which bloom in the soil reddened by sweat and blood, while at her Calvary, amid the mighty thunderings that clamor across the darkened skies, she has heard the sweet voice of the Christ of God, and she pillows her weary head upon the beating heart of the universe. Her loss has been immeasurable—not so much of territory as of the splendid youth of the land—but she has found something unspeakably precious—she has found herself in finding God."

LUFBERY'S END.

Body Dropped Into Flower Bed, Says Comrade.

Chicago, Ill., July 16.—The poetic end of the life of Raoul Lufberry, the famous American "ace," is described in a letter from Aviator Walter Flannigan to his father, Charles Flannigan, former police sergeant here. Flannigan has been in France six months.

"Lufberry made a great fight, but finally jumped from the machine at an altitude of about 3,500 feet," he writes. "He landed in a garden of flowers, and a woman that lived there recognized him, and placed lighted candles about his body."

"The English-speaking German prisoners are placed in our sector. A German captain was astonished at the number of American soldiers. He said the people of Germany are told that only a few Yankees are in France and that the troops of the Americans are all being sunk, and that New York has been taken, and a German army is marching on Washington to take President Wilson prisoner."

"Say, we will have old Kaiser Bill in the zoo in Lincoln Park next year. We are eating well, get fresh meat and everything down to sweet cookies. We are even getting real American coffee and canned cream. 'How is that for our good old Uncle Sam?'"

PARADE THURSDAY MORNING.

In Honor of the Colored Men Who Entrain for Camp Dix.

Six young colored men of Kingston will leave Thursday morning on the 9:05 o'clock West Shore train for Camp Dix, N. J., and as announced in The Freeman, they will be given a rousing demonstration and parade. The orders as given out by Grand Marshal Atkins will be carried out. The grand marshal requests that all business houses and residences be decorated with Old Glory that day and that every person who can, turn out and give the men a demonstration that will cause them to realize that Kingston and Old Ulster are proud of the spirit shown by their colored citizens.

Entente and Teutonic Resources.

The Entente Allies—excluding Russia and including only those British dominions which are self-governing and only the United States proper—have 11,000,000 square miles of territory, 303,000,000 people, and $495,000,000 of national wealth. The Central Powers have 1,250,000 square miles of territory, 147,000,000 people, and $134,000,000 of national wealth.

The entente owe an aggregate debt of $69,000,000,000, which is about 14 per cent of their total assets. The Central Powers owe $37,000,000,000 or 28 per cent of their national wealth.

GERMAN ARMIES CONTINUE ASSAULT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 16 (1 p. m.)—The great battle on the Marne-Champagne front is still raging with General Von Below's and General Von Boehm's German armies continuing their assaults.

It is difficult to say whether or not the whole offensive has been repulsed, but the evidence at hand shows that it was intended for Germany's biggest drive and was not a diversion.

Thirty German divisions already have been identified, mostly from the army of Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria.

Rheims is still held by the French. The German attacks have been repulsed with the heaviest possible losses. The situation on the allied side is distinctly good and the French are entirely satisfied with it.

East of Rheims two German attacks were delivered with tanks in the sectors of Souain and Prunay. In the latter district a wood was captured; elsewhere the Germans were repulsed. The line of resistance from one to two miles behind the front trenches is everywhere intact east of Rheims.

West of Rheims the two main German attacks were directed:

- 1.—Down the Marne.
- 2.—Due south of Dormans.

The Germans threw six pontoon bridges across the Marne between Dormans and Reuilly, on a four mile front.

The capture of a German aeroplane map showed that one of the enemy's chief attacks was to be directed down the Marne in the direction of Epernay.

Railroad Women.

Philadelphia, July 16.—More than 1,400 women have been employed by the eastern lines of the Pennsylvania railroad during June to do every kind of work, from cleaning locomotives to leading track gangs. Before the war, women were rarely taken into the railroad's service, but since it began 9,354 have been employed. This is an increase of 1,945 over last year. Women are now working in sixty-nine classified occupations on Pennsylvania roads and have invaded manual labor, which formerly regarded as being filled only by men.

GAZLAY HAD FINE VOYAGE ACROSS

Is Surprised to Find the Old Countries Behind America in Engineering Work—Air is Full of Machines.

Supply Co. 309, H. F. A. Ordnance Detachment, American Ex. Force, June 14, 1918.

Dear Folks:

Suppose you have already received word that I landed safely. However I cannot explain to you all I would like of our voyage. I will tell some of our experiences on the sea. It was very surprising to me to be able to sight birds each day. Some of them seem to live on the water, but I don't know about how it is when they come to hatch, whether they build a nest in a wave or not, but if they do I know the young birds will be there when I look up. I saw a couple of whales and some sharks and many other large fish. A few days the sea was very rough and quite a number of the fellows were seasick, although I can say I did not miss a single meal or was sick at all, and enjoyed the trip, although it is a little inconvenient at times. Sometimes the waves came up so high they dashed water over the deck. We had a good convoy, however, and I hoped a sub would show up for a little sport. I was well and did not feel like a goner. Well, as luck would have it, one morning one made an attempt but was driven off without any damage being done to our convoy. After we landed lots of the girls marched up the streets with us and wanted to carry our packs for us. They seem to have a lot of Uncle Sam's soldiers.

The country looks real nice. They are working in harvest, women, girls and aged men work, also young boys, but I was a little surprised on one situation; that was the mechanical engineering. I thought being this is an older country than ours that it would be more up to date, but I'll tell you what, Dear Old Uncle Sam has the apple sauce spread all over their griddle cakes. If you could see the railway trains you would say they are dinky cars of toys. Well, the capacity of the freight cars are ten tons, just a load for one of our small auto trucks. When they load lumber in them one end is in, the other out; that is if there is any length to it at all. One car has but four wheels and when they jump off the track the trainmen get out and lift it right back on again, so you see that is one advantage. Of course, you can believe more of this, but don't believe any more than half you see and nothing you hear, although quite a bit of this is facts.

The sun don't go down until about 9 o'clock and comes up again about 3, so it's day time most of the time. I suppose you folks have just finished your dinner. I just put my supper away.

The air is about as full of machines as it is of birds here. Well, I would appreciate a line from anyone at any time. Use above address. As ever,

Private CARL M. GAZLAY.

JEFFERSON LEAGUE ENDORSES IRWIN

As Democratic Candidate for Governor—Postmaster DeWitt and Other Leaders of League Also Select Delegates and Hold Talkfest.

The Jefferson League held its first political meeting of the season Monday evening to which all Democrats in good standing had been invited, and among other matters taken up they adopted a resolution endorsing ex-Mayor Roscoe Irwin as the Jefferson League's candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket. Undoubtedly when the state convention hears of what the Jefferson League has done it will lose not a moment in accepting Mr. Irwin as the official candidate.

That the Jefferson League is striving to keep harmony in the party ranks was shown by the fact that in selecting delegates to attend the state convention to be held at Saratoga they selected ex-Mayor William D. Brinipier, a well known Bryan man, and an active member of the Old Guard of the Democratic party; Judge James A. Betts, another Democratic was horse of the Old Guard, and the third delegate selected was J. J. McGrath of Phenicia to represent the Young Turks.

In order to see that the three delegates carry out the wishes of the Jefferson League a committee was named to accompany them including Senator Jacob Rice, ex-Mayor Morris Block, Postmaster W. C. DeWitt, Water Commissioner William Roach, A. B. Hornbeck, former Police Commissioner William F. Refferty, Postmaster Kenney and Dr. O'Day of Saugerties, and "others."

Candidates Won't Accept.

While the Democrats in good standing were seated in the main club room of the Jefferson League the leaders of the league met and talked over candidates. From what leaked out it developed the fact that Jacob V. Merrihew and Holt N. Winfield, who had been prominently mentioned for county clerk would hardly accept the nomination offered them by the Jefferson League. Mr. Merrihew is from the town of Olive and Mr. Winfield from the town of Esopus.

Mahar May Take It.

The choice of the Jefferson League leaders finally simmered down to John E. Mahar, the genial superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, and it is said that Mr. Mahar is willing. In order to make sure the leaders decided to take the matter up again at an adjourned meeting.

Accept Judge Jenkins.

The Jefferson League decided that it would be the best policy to accept Judge Jenkins as the league's candidate for county judge, and not even another was whispered as a candidate.

Mrs. Michaels to Be Something.

One of the members of the Old Guard who attended the meeting when seen today said he was seated in the rear of the room and did not hear everything that was said, but his impression was that Mrs. M. J. Michaels, the efficient member of the board of health, was mentioned for candidate for member of assembly. Either that or for appointment on some "important" committee. It was one thing or the other but he was not positive just what it was.

Mrs. Michaels has long been active in Kingston fighting for woman's right to vote, and has the distinction of being Kingston's first police woman. This latter honor was conferred upon her during the regime of Dr. L. K. Stelle as health officer, when Dr. Stelle, Mrs. Michaels and other members of the health board paid a visit to the famous Ellsworth pig pen on Lucas avenue. What occurred there at that time led Mrs. Michaels being sworn in as police officer with the power to make arrests if she deemed it necessary. She is now away on her vacation and will not be aware of the honor the Jefferson League is contemplating conferring on her until she reads it in The Freeman.

Will Hold Another Session.

The "leaders" of the Jefferson League after a careful glance over the Democrats in good standing who attended the meeting Monday evening, decided it would be best to hold another meeting later in the month, and July 25 was fixed upon as the tentative date.

Invitations will be extended to those wanted at the conference when it is held.

The Official Resolution.

The official resolution endorsing ex-Mayor Irwin, given out today by the Jefferson League reads as follows:

Resolved, that it is the sense of the Democrats of Ulster county in conference assembled at the Jefferson League rooms in Kingston, N. Y., July 15th, 1918, that Hon. Roscoe Irwin is the most suitable, competent and experienced man that could be named from this section of the great state of New York for the nomination of governor this year on the Democratic state ticket; as city judge of Kingston years, mayor of Kingston 4 years and collector of internal revenue at Albany 5 years. Roscoe Irwin has ably and signally administered the varied duties of these offices. We strongly endorse

"Important Matters Later."

It was impossible to discuss all the "important matters" at one session and these "important matters" will be discussed at the next "conference."

In the meantime any desiring to be a candidate of the Jefferson League on the Democratic ticket this fall is urged to get in touch with Postmaster DeWitt and the matter will have due consideration.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus. In more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Wednesday.

Breakfast—Rolled oats, top milk with shredded coconut, fish and potato balls, coffee.

Lunch or Supper—Scalloped potatoes. Conservation loaf bread. Pineapple with cottage cheese dressing.

Dinner—Stuffed cabbage. Potato fritters. Tomato and green pepper salad. *Deep-dish apple pie.

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

Even left-over scalloped potatoes can be and must be conserved. They are delicious when fried and, if not too moist, they may make their reappearance on the table in the form of individual fried cakes.

Fish and Potato Balls.

2 cups mashed potatoes, 1½ cups

shredded fish (freshened slightly and par-boiled until soft), 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon milk.

To the mashed potatoes add the fish, the butter and the milk. Beat the mixture until it is light. Add the egg, which has been well-beaten. Drop spoonfuls of this mixture into a pan containing a small amount of fat and brown the "balls" on both sides.

Stuffed Cabbage.

1 medium-sized cabbage, 2-3 cup cold meat, ground; 2-3 cup cold cooked cereal (barley, rice or hominy), 1 onion, minced; ½ teaspoon salt, pepper, paprika, chopped parsley, minced pimiento, 2-3 cup buttered bread crumbs, stock or hot water.

Remove the center from a head of cabbage, leaving a wall about 2 inches thick. Parboil the cabbage in salted water for 10 minutes, drain it, and save the water for soup. Place it in a baking pan, and fill the cavity with the remaining ingredients mixed together. Sprinkle the buttered crumbs over the top, pour a small quantity of meat stock or cabbage water into the pan, and bake the cabbage in a moderate oven for about 35 minutes, or until it is tender.

Cottage Cheese Dressing.

½ cup cottage cheese, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, paprika. Mix cheese and yolk thoroughly. Add oil, vinegar and seasoning slowly and beat well.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Storm at Whitfield.

The family of Simon P. Hornbeck and a number of guests were startled Sunday afternoon when lightning struck the Hornbeck home. Coming some time after the storm had apparently ceased, the bolt entered one corner of the house, zig-zagged its way along the metallic ceilings through several rooms before making its exit. Fortunately, while most of the family and guests were right in the path way of the electric fluid, no one was injured, although considerable damage was done to the house.

Woman's Home Defense Meeting.

The Woman's Home Defense Committee of Ulster county will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Holt N. Winfield in Ulster Park on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Speakers will be in attendance and important topics will be discussed. All are cordially invited to be present.

IN SETTLEMENT OF LARGE ESTATE

Surrogate Directs Distribution of Estate of Late John U. Brookman of West Park Amounting to Over $6,000,000.

The account of Judge Augustus N. Hand and Donald S. Walker, as surviving executors of and trustees under the last will and testament of John U. Brookman of West Park, in the town of Esopus, in this county, was approved by Surrogate Gill on Monday morning, and a decree granting passing the same and directing the distribution of the assets in the hands of the trustees as directed by the will. Mr. Brookman, who was a wealthy resident of the town of Esopus for many years, died in January, 1914, leaving an estate which according to the account of the executors, amounts at this time to $6,561,431.70. Under the law as it existed at the time of his death, the trustees of his estate, represented by Judge Clearwater, paid to County Treasurer John A. Snyder $418,000, the amount of the transfer tax upon the estate as fixed by Surrogate Gill. There are many beneficiaries under the will, among them being the Episcopal Church of the Ascension at West Park, and the Methodist and Baptist Churches at that place, and several other religious and educational institutions. The trustees on the accounting yesterday were represented by Rushmore, Bisbee and Stern of New York, and by Judge Clearwater, Blocker and Tucker of New York. Brookman as general guardian of John Van Neck, and as testamentary guardian of Amory S. Carhart and Marion Renee Carhart, and Virgil B. Van Wagoner appeared as the special guardian of the other infants, and as the attorney for Harold Gillespie Cushman, an officer in the military service of the United States.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

2312—A Simple and Attractive Model.

In blue serge, brown Jersey cloth, or plaid or mixed suiting, this model will be ideal. The waist is fitted with a front dart and has a smart revers collar trimming. The skirt has graceful fullness and straight lines.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

The world war evidently has not interfered with the work of Dan Cupid in Kingston during June, the bridal month, for City Clerk Doremus stated today that during June he had issued 31 marriage licenses, which is three more than June of last year.

Monday but one new case of measles was reported to the health board.

This is the last week that water rents may be paid with no penalty attached and it is likely that is the reason why the water board office is so busy.

The silent cop on Broadway near the Y. M. C. A. was placed on the retired list Monday by George Ackley of 8 Sterling street. Mr. Ackley paid the hospital bill.

With the political pot beginning to boil politicians are starting to wonder just what effect the women vote will have on election in Kingston. The general impression of those "in the know" seems to be that the women will not vote as heavily this year as they did when the local option question was up.

Probably that was one reason why the city fathers in redistricting the city or increased the number of election districts seven, making twenty. If the women vote was heavy it would have meant that there would have been 28 instead of 20 districts.

Sometimes even politicians are fooled, however. Still the question will likely be definitely settled in November. Present indications point to the fact that the women will not turn out and vote their full strength unless some moral issue is up for settlement.

Property owners should get busy and cut the weeds about their property. It is said on some streets the weeds are full three feet tall. It is likely the matter will be taken up by the board of public works unless action is taken sooner by the property owners themselves.

WAR-TIME HINTS FOR THE LOYAL HOUSEWIFE.

Fish for food as well as for pleasure, suggests the United States Food Administration to the thousands of families who spend several weeks every summer in cottages on lakes and streams. Fish as a substitute for meat has long been urged, and now that the shortage of beef is again serious it is desirable to increase the use of fish.

Fishing has an added charm when one's dinner depends on the outcome, and the sport of camp cookery should be more attractive in a game to see how many delicious ways the fresh catch can be prepared for the table.

Besides fried, baked and stuffed fish, there are other means of preparation which adapt themselves readily to camp kitchens.

Fish Chowder.

Three lbs. fish, 4 tablespoons dripping, 1 medium onion, chopped fine, 1 quart sliced potatoes, 3 cups of hot milk.

Skin and bone the fish and cut into inch cubes. Cover the bone and trimmings with cold water and let simmer for one-half hour. Cook the onion in the fat for five minutes in a stew pan.

Parboil the sliced potatoes for five minutes, then drain and add layers of fish and potatoes to the fat and onion in the stew-pan. Season each layer with salt and pepper. Strain the liquid in which the fish bones have been boiling over all, and cook about twenty minutes until fish and potatoes are tender. Then add the scalded milk. If desired thicker, sprinkle a little corn meal between each layer of fish and potatoes.

The following sauces may be served with fish to add variety:

Vegetable Sauce.

Add one-half cup of green peas, chopped celery, asparagus, cauliflower, or mushrooms to one cup of white sauce. Season well and serve with fish balls.

Cheese Sauce.

Add one-half cup of grated cheese to one cup of white sauce. Use paprika instead of pepper in making sauce.

WINTER USE OF DRIED PRODUCTS.

By Ellen I. Kelley.

(Director, Department of Household Science, National War Garden Commission, Washington, D. C.)

The reward for past labors and the pleasure of working out a process to the finish comes to the housewife when she takes her dried products to prepare for table use in the winter. Send to the National War Garden Commission, Washington, for a free drying manual, which will be sent you upon request. Enclose a 2-cent stamp to cover postage. It should be remembered that the amount of water dried out of vegetables or fruit must be largely restored before they are in proper condition for cooking. This takes time.

As a general rule, the longer the time required for drying, the longer the time necessary to restore the moisture content. This is done by soaking in cold water. The soaking products should be kept in a cool place. Fruits may be soaked overnight.

Allow three to four times as much water as dried product and cook in the same water. This water in which the products have been soaked contains some of the mineral salts or some of the juices, and is therefore of value.

Avoid over-soaking. Dried, sliced beets, if soaked too long, lose their red color and good flavor. Soaking for two hours, two parts water to one part beet, should be enough. Corn is another product which, not going to be content with merely don't have that "negligee" look about them; they're dressy. Hard to tell some of them from regular woollens, but there's no mistaking their summery "feel" when you wear them. $12.50 to $25.00.

should not be oversoaked. Four hours is usually enough. It is not necessary to soak until products are fully restored to natural shape; they will absorb moisture while cooking. It is practicable in some instances, especially when vegetables are finely shredded, to pour hot water over them and cook at once.

When cooking dried vegetables or fruits a better flavor is secured by cooking in a covered vessel. The casserole is to be especially recommended for fruits. The commission especially when answer any questions written on one side of the paper and sent in a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Soldiers Rehabilitation.

The United States government is not going to be content with merely re-educating and rehabilitating the soldiers who have been disabled by wounds, and fitting them for useful and gainful occupations; it is not going to leave them to shift for themselves, but will exert an active continuing interest in their welfare. This does not mean that the government is to coddle them or treat them as weaklings, but it is going to take an active interest in securing them work, and in other ways endeavor to make up to them the opportunities and advantages they lost by reason of wounds received in fighting their country's battles. Every Liberty Loan Bond and every war Savings Stamp purchased aids in this work.

LARKIN'S STORE CLOSED TO-DAY

WALKER ENJOYS A BUSY AFTERNOON

Motorcycle Officer Andy Walker is making a record—Monday's Bag Totaled Three Violators of Traffic Law.

Motorcycle Officer Andy Walker is making a record for himself since he assumed his duties as Kingston's first motorcycle cop, and Monday's bag of prisoners totaled three. Speeders and those who make a practice of driving on the left hand side of the street, as well as those who drive by a trolley car discharging passengers had best beware in the future.

Kasper Lowenstein of Brooklyn was caught speeding on Broadway Monday afternoon between St. James street and Pine Grove avenue and was hauled up short by Officer Walker. Later Kasper enriched the city treasurer to the extent of $3.

Lester D. Livingston of Brooklyn was caught passing a trolley car discharging passengers on the left hand side of the street. Lester also forgot to give any signal at all. He was fined $5.

M. F. Whited was caught speeding at 35 miles an hour on Albany avenue by Officer Walker and gave cash bail for his appearance in court Wednesday afternoon.

Other Cases.
Thomas W. Moffit, who was arrested on Sunday by Officer Martin for passing a trolley car discharging passengers, forfeited his cash bail of $5 by failing to appear in court Monday. He lives in New York.

The famous laundry case was settled in police court Monday afternoon when Morris Newgold, proprietor of the Overlook Mountain House, was discharged. He made restitution. It developed from the evidence that one of his employees had taken some blankets to Kingston to a laundry. Mr. Newgold called at the Dolan laundry and was given blankets that belonged to another hotel.

NAVY PHOTOS.
The Department to Perpetuate Memory of Dead.

The navy department is collecting photographs of enlisted men who lose their lives in the war that their memory may be perpetuated. Secretary Daniels asks relatives or others having such photographs to lend them to the navy that copies may be made for the navy records. Originals will be returned to the owners as fast as copies can be made.

A photograph of each man is to be forwarded by the navy department to the training station where he began his career in the service. At each of such stations a memorial gallery of honor or a hero's corner is to be established so that for all time the face of the man of the navy who has made the supreme sacrifice may be honored by the youth of the future sent to the station for training.

All pictures, loaned or contributed, should be securely wrapped for mailing after they have been marked with the name, branch of service, and training station the young man entered after enlistment. The should be addressed to the Recording Division, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Care will be taken to return safely the photograph to the sender, when desired, together with one of the copies made of it.

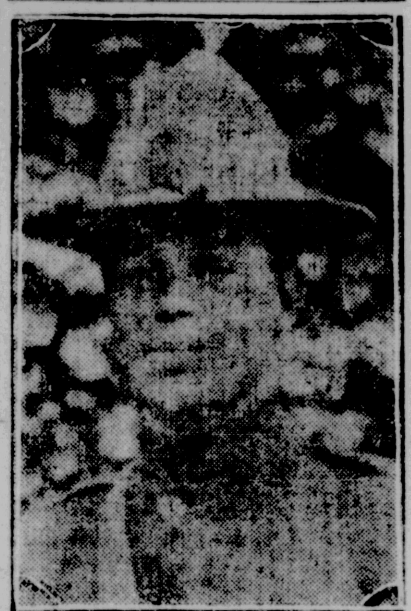

C. S. Revenues.
The internal-revenue collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 last totaled $3,672,000,000. The collections for the preceding year were $3,600,000,000. This year's collections exceed by nearly $200,000,000 the estimates made when the war revenue measure was passed by congress last year. Four thousand persons were employed in the work and the total cost of the collection was only $12,000,000. The patriotism roused by the war contributed largely to the success of the work, and the taxpayers assisted and co-operated with the government. A determined effort will be made to bring to book tax evaders in every part of the country. The treasury already has evidence against a large number who have sought to evade taxes, and by checking up contracts and with other data the government expects finally to discover and punish many tax evaders, as well as recover large amounts of revenue illegally withheld.

PORT EWEN MAN'S LIFE IN FRANCE

Private Harry E. Schryver, 14th Railway Engineers, One of First Ulster County Men in France, Relates Some of His Experiences.

Private Harry E. Schryver, Company E, 14th Engineers (Railway), a native of Port Ewen and in his early youth an employee of The Freeman, was one of the first Ulster county men in France, having sailed with his regiment for England shortly after the United States entered the war. Several letters have been printed in The Freeman and the following account of his experiences—half letter, half diary—evidently written in odd hours as a pastime, came to the managing editor of The Freeman, with whom Private Schryver was associated more than 20 years ago, in several installments.

(Fourth Installment.)
Christmas in Camp.

Today is Christmas. Five broke camp to start for our long months ago, July 25, we journey. Snow had fallen several times during the day but not enough to cause inconvenience. A heavy, raw wind is now sweeping through the valley. From what our experience has been when the wind blows, we forecast another rainy period of two to seven days. Last night and today our thoughts have been of home and the loved ones we left behind. But we cannot allow our feelings to interfere with our work here. Much depends upon the efficiency of our regiment or any other similar regiment that has ever been in active service. Grave responsibility rests upon the shoulders of every man whose work is on the railroads behind the lines—sometimes into the lines. They must be men who are not afraid to continue their work under conditions that are very trying to nerves at times. But they often get times to relax and enjoy pleasures. And how Co. E enjoyed an entertainment the night before Christmas, you can judge from the following description of our entertainment and distribution of gifts Christmas Eve at the British Y. M. C. A. hut at the front.

The hut had been generously donated for the sole use of the company by permission of British authorities for the evening only. Many officers of other companies were present by invitation. They were the only ones allowed to be present with our company. It was a reunion of Co. E. Many of the men present Christmas Eve were men from the stations and places within a radius of 50 miles from Headquarters. Men whom I had not seen since we were assigned in various groups to stations along the "Suicide Line" (narrow gauge lines). And it was mighty good for us to mingle together again and renew the old acquaintance that had begun at our camp in America. During a period of ten days a number of officers worked hard to insure the success of the entertainment. Orders were dispatched wherever an E. Company man was stationed with instructions that men from other companies would relieve them from their work on Christmas Eve, and to proceed to Regimental Headquarters, so as to arrive there not later than 6 o'clock Christmas Eve. At our control station were six men of Company E. The other six men relieved us and we walked "down" to Regimental Headquarters arriving there a half hour before the stated time. While we were greeting men we had not seen for four months, a heavy rain began and continued while we formed ranks, marched to and entered the Y. M. C. A. hut. The men had brought their haversacks and mess kits, as per orders, and accommodations were provided for checking them. When all were inside and seated, I was much surprised at the neatness and appearance of the company. When the company reported at camp in America, anyone would have had little trouble to pick out the men who had worked out in the open air. But Christmas Eve as I glanced over the entire company and invited guests, no such difference existed. Every man had a dark, healthy color. Every eye was clear and bright with anticipation. A few sported a mustache, but the majority were clean shaven. Every man looked his part as a representative of America's first picked forces that began work on the railways in France. In the company while at camp in America were many who were young boys. From their appearance now, I really believe their parents and friends would hardly recognize them as the same "boys" who had left them only a short time ago. The boyish look and jokes have changed to a serious look and silence. They know and understand better now. And I write you that I did feel mighty proud to know I was with them and could feel the spirit of that reunion as deeply as anyone there, when I again met my friends after four months' absence.

Christmas Entertainment.

The hut was decorated with bunting of our national colors. In one end of the hut was a large Christmas tree decorated in a manner that caused me to wonder where the material had been bought. In France. How it did remind me of the larger ones we often saw in Madison Square, New York city! The entertainment consisted of speeches, songs, recitations, instrumental music, clog-dancing, sleight-of-hand performances, comedy work, monologues and finally, the decoration of several men with "joke" medals. Our mess-sergeant received a small toy cow and was reminded that it was probably the cow which had furnished the milk to the men where I am stationed. One corporal had earned the nickname of "President of the Stove-pipe Committee" and his present was a length of old, rusty stove-pipe, with a request for a speech. They couldn't feaze him! He earned the applause of all by his speech. The men from the "Cuckoos" hut and the "Doughnut" squads were in great demand. Men were picked from the audience to do "their bit." They dared not refuse. It is surprising to learn what a large amount of unknown talent and fun you can find among a large number of men. Everyone was having a great treat until someone moved among the men and whispered to a number, who arose and left at once. We knew unexpected orders had been received, and our sympathy went out to those men picked for the order, and (as we later learned) several others who had been picked for a similar errand just before we marched to the hall. The departure of the picked men acted like a damper, but we soon overcame that and forgot it had occurred. (Business before pleasure always with this regiment.) Finally we sang our camp song. One verse and chorus is as follows:

The Boomers! The Boomers!
With the dirt behind their ears.
The Boomers! The Boomers!
That lap up all the beers.
The Infantry, the cavalry, and the rest of the Engineers.
They couldn't whip the Boomers in a hundred thousand years.

Chorus.
Glorious! Glorious! What's one can of beer for all of us.
Thanks be to the Lord there are no more of us.
When one of us could drink it all alone.

This song was composed by men known as "The Boomers" at our camp in America. "The Boomers" were men who were in camp training but unassigned to any company. They were later assigned to companies, but the song remains as a memory of those days. There are other verses. Sometimes I may send them all.

But No Christmas Gifts.

Then came the time for the distribution of Christmas gifts and packages. The men were very quiet as our captain stated that the expected Christmas gifts had arrived at a French city December 13th but had not been sent to Headquarters yet at that hour; but not to be disappointed as a box of candy from The Traffic and New England Railroad Club and a comfort bag would be given each man. The silence remained unbroken for a few minutes. Then men appeared stunned, but did not mention a word. Two weeks without letters or packages from home, and their hopes of some on Christmas Eve was a great disappointment! Then the song, "Put all your troubles in your kit bag, and smile, smile, smile," relieved the tension, and every man forgot the disappointment as they formed in line for the supper of potato salad, chicken bouillon, mayonnaise dressing, salmon with plum duff and sauce, cake, bread and cocoa.

That was where I again felt mighty proud to be with the men who could face such a disappointment and not mention a word about it while their every thought was of home and Christmas cheer and expectations for packages and mail from their own people—besides others from certain societies and organizations at home. Often disappointments bring out the best that is in a man. Somewhere in America are two people who I hope will receive the cards I mailed in return for the comfort bag and candy with my sincere thanks and appreciation for same. Little do they realize that those gifts really did mean to us that Christmas Eve. The entertainment was the best one I have ever attended anywhere. The spirit of the men when they realized their disappointment was magnificent to witness. Too much credit cannot be given Captain ——— and Sergeants ——— and ——— and the other men who devoted their energy and zeal to make the entertainment a success for the men who would be late, and had made up a purse of $6 francs among 12 men here and purchased articles about 10 miles "down" from our station, leaving the chickens at the farm house where our Thanksgiving chickens were cooked. Three men went down for them Christmas morning, and the three acted as cooks, and the other six followed regular routine of work. Our cookhouse was the scene of another dinner like the one we would have had at home. But we purchased it with our money. And tonight, as I write this while on duty, the snow falls in heavy flakes on a covering of four inches that has fallen during the day. It is now near midnight

Turkey for Dinner.

Before we left Headquarters we learned the turkeys had arrived and would be given out Christmas morning—too late to be cooked for our dinner. And ours did arrive at 10:30 a. m. Christmas with our other rations and articles, and the loss of bread. But we had thought it would be late, and had made up a purse of $6 francs among 12 men here and purchased articles about 10 miles "down" from our station, leaving the chickens at the farm house where our Thanksgiving chickens were cooked. Three men went down for them Christmas morning, and the three acted as cooks, and the other six followed regular routine of work. here The hands of the clock will soon make Christmas day only a memory to us. At home it is now 4 p. m., the time when some would be sitting at some friend's house. We hardly knew it was Christmas Day here. It was the same as any other day. The guns were talking with a language that did not conform to the meaning of Christmas Day.

Six months ago today we went into camp in America. Christmas is now only a memory to us. Since then the weather has changed. Snow has fallen at different periods, but not enough to cause any inconvenience to our usual routine. It has been very cold for the past three days. Today (December 28) has been very cold during the morning and afternoon.

But what a different appearance tonight as I am about to be relieved! A light snow is falling, whirling along through the valley by a perfect hurricane. The cold is intense. The states seldom has had worse storms than the one now with us. Not a person is to be seen on the roads. The sentries are hurrying the protection of whatever they can find that is large enough to shelter them. The stoves are burning brightly in the huts as you pass, and you can see the fire coming out over the tops of the chimneys. The men must be happy to be inside and "keep the camp-fires burning bright." I did not envy them as I would soon be there also. But there are many who cannot be inside by the warm fires. What about those men in the trenches, on guard and patrol work and our men who are following their usual routine. Storms do not cause them to relax their vigilance or efficiency. The same system pursued in America on railroads is in operation here. And that alone is attained through, and requires efficiency. Experience increases efficiency and that is what the Railway Engineer Regiments have had for their foundation. You can see it everywhere in their discipline, neatness and initiative ability to overcome obstacles here that would prove a stumbling-block to others lacking initiative ability and determination.

Shadows As Well As Sunshine.

During the period of writing this letter, care has been used to eliminate all dates except in one or two incidents, and also to show the bright side of our life in France. But there are always dark sides to anyone in active service. Three times I was allowed to visit the Casualty Clearing House (Red Cross Hospital) and see several of my English friends there. Each visit caused me to do some thinking. Governor Morris,

the famous journalist and writer of stories for the Cosmopolitan Magazine passed here during that period. I also met Private N. G. Markson, of Co. E, who lives at 74 West Union street, Kingston, N. Y., and we were "back home" for one hour. I had not met him while at camp in America. There are many other incidents which will be remembered during the balance of my life. Remembrances to my friends. As I finish it is 12 o'clock midnight, December 30. It is 7 p. m. at home. The church bells are no doubt ringing out their message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to All!" and I remember the beautiful words:

"Tis Sunday! The same sweet bells are pealing.
And the same old flag flies o'er,
As the same sweet thoughts come stealing.
Of the same old friends once more.
Later:
Dinner in Peasant Home.

While in New York city with friends we would form a party and have dinner at some restaurant where the service and food was excellent. Over here we sometimes do the same—except that the parties are formed of men only—and dine at the same farm house where our chickens were cooked. It is similar to all French peasant's houses—very old and strong—and is yet in good condition. The Germans did not reach that village although they shelled it from a point three miles away before they retreated. The houses bear evidence of that fact. The residents of this farmhouse and two others near there remained—even during the period when others were fleeing to safer places. Through good luck the farm house was not struck—and through an interpreter we learned their story of want and privation during those stormy days. It is an interesting story; but I sometimes think that they wonder what our nature must be when we endeavor to learn their story. There is an elderly couple at this farm house; and a younger woman and a girl of nineteen years resides with them. We asked them for their names, and although they speak a few English words, we could not understand them. So we christened the young woman "Mathilda," and the girl "Georgiana." (They appear pleased as they answer when we call them by those names. Now we wonder did we christen them by their right names? Perhaps?) Well! To make a long story short, "Mathilda" is some cook? What she doesn't know about cooking would require a small book. Ach! Mein Gott! How she can cook? We know as we have been there several times, and can honestly state that the dinners were about all we could get away with—in English means "clear day tomorrow?" And we are some eaters when we (highball through the soup and out on the main line) to where the (heavy) entrees are ready for us (to hitch) with a (clear line ahead) for us (to draw them) to where they should be (placed). But our good cook "Mathilda" pulled a bloomer (mistake) on us the other day. She made some soup with plenty of garlic in it. (Too much and too good.) We thought it was onion soup and (highballed through) as usual.

Then we finished the other courses in record time as we wanted to catch the "ration train" up at 1:30 p. m. and save a long walk to our control station. We caught the train alright and on our way "up" we chatted with the men going on leave to Blighty (England). Their smiles changed to a disgusted look as they moved away from us. Still we were not wise to the reason. But when we arrived at our control station we soon learned why they had left us so quick, when someone roared, "Phew! Garlic! Garlic! who in — has been eating garlic?" Our troubles had only commenced. We owned the ground we walked on. Everyone allowed as plenty of space until it was time for us to "turn in" for the night. Then they put on their gas masks and threatened to hang up a blanket and isolate our two bunks from the others and place a guard there to see that we did not tear it down before we slumbered;—unless we remembered where we were. We promised to go to bed and stay there;—and they gave us the laugh, and turned in too, with gas masks on, and buried their heads under the blankets—free from the beautiful perfume of garlic. It is a standing joke with them. I guess they will never forget it. I know I will be more careful of innocent-looking soup greens and onions in soup. When men are hungry they seldom consider that the future results will be for their comrades. But we take our hats off to "Mathilda!"

One Never Knows.

She is some cook—and then some? But no more garlic for "yours truly." No siree! Others can, but in the future I prefer some other sweet smelling, sweet tasting soup. Can you blame me after our experience? About a month ago I took out a policy for $10,000 for $7.30 monthly. Recent events shortly after warned me it was a good move to take out an insurance of $10,000 on myself. It comes in handy, as one never knows when—?

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT.

There is a very old principle founded in the human experience of the ages to which Abraham Lincoln gave homely expression in a phrase to the effect that it is not wise to swap horses in the middle of the stream. Col. George Harvey had this principle in mind when some weeks ago he proposed that Democrats and Republicans eliminate from Congressional contests all districts where the majority of the sitting member was large two years ago, or as much as three thousand. The only exception was to be in case the sitting man was not 100 per cent loyal, in which case an amicable adjustment was to be made by sending a new candidate. When the proposition was made, with the Congressional elections still months off, both National Chairmen accepted it in a patriotic and friendly spirit. They cautiously waited, however, doing nothing, and now all over the country contests for the nominations are going on as usual, as if no such proposition had been approved.

If Col. Harvey's plan had been adopted in practice, there would have been contests in only about a hundred districts, with ability to forward war work legislation as the only issue. As the matter stands, the country has merely approved the idea in theory while declining to follow it in practice. This means simply that the human nature of peace times is not changed by such war as we now face or believe that we face. There is not sufficient doubt as to the outcome—the country is not frightened enough—for it to be possible to induce politicians and political leaders to go practically out of business. This might be done if the Huns were in possession of New York and were hammering at the gates of the city, but under the present circumstances, it is too much to expect.

There is no form of German propaganda more subtle or more dangerous than that which seeks to create sympathy for individual Germans through stories and plays. Such a play was "The Little Belgian," which the producer dropped when its influence was brought to his attention. Another is "The Unbeliever," a play which has been going the rounds of small communities in this the author, misreading the abnormal situation created by the monstrous methods of the Germans, sought to minimize the human tendency toward race prejudice as applied to the Germans. There can be no doubt that race prejudice is a monstrous evil and one which is unfortunately rampant in this country. But this is not the time to make a fight against it in favor of the German people. The first duty of every American is to realize that the German people, as led by the Kaiser, is no more than a ravaging horde, which must be decisively beaten. So far as the Germans who uphold the Kaiser, which means practically all the Germans living in Germany, are concerned, we can have but one feeling. They are our enemies and will continue so until we have brought them to their senses, and this will not happen, as is unfortunately too evident until we have secured a decisive victory. Any paltering of these facts at this time means a distinct weakening of the American morale.

No better definition of the real object of this great war has been given than that of President Wilson when he said at Washington's tomb that "what we seek is the reign of law based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind." Most of us thought—with a western hemisphere of republics and constitutional government established in the greater part of Europe—that the civilized world already possessed precisely that, but the modern Hun has dispelled this illusion.

Bagdad now has electric lights, a police force and a fire department, hurrying automobiles and a free and thriving business life. This is not because our old friend Aladdin of "Arabian Nights" memory has rubbed his magic lamp but because the British have driven out the Turks.

No doubt German militarism still has something up its sleeve, but we may be reasonably confident that the check received by the Kaiser's legions everywhere on the west front is to be interpreted as the beginning of the end.

There is significance in the fact that the French franc (20 cents) is now worth more than the German mark (25 cents), but the situation will not be quite what it should be until the Kaiser begins to look like 30 cents.

Holland takes our wheat, agreeing to eat it, and then gives its potatoes to Germany. We need all our wheat at home except what we must ship to our allies. Who wants to eat "war bread" in order that Holland may feed Germany on potatoes?

Bastille Day at St. James.

The very large congregation that filled St. James's Methodist Church Sunday night, a gathering remarkable for the time of the year, was in itself a fine tribute to France. The service was the celebration of the fall of the Bastille, and the outpouring of the people was proof that America had not forgotten the debt to France, her former and her present ally. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags, the French flag draped in front of the pulpit. The singing was excellent, and all enjoyed the rendering of the Marseillaise, which made the heart beat a little faster. The preacher, Dr. Baragwanath, after telling of our lasting debt to France, told the story of the Bastille, which was the very embodiment of the tyranny of feudalism and of the absolutism of the king, who ruled by divine right. When the Bastille, the grim and ghastly monster, fell, it struck terror to the heart of Louis the king, while it meant to the people the first taste of the sweet waters of freedom. The speaker told of his emotions when for the first time he stood in the Place de la Bastille and thought of the rivers of tears that had been shed there, the untold agony that had been endured there, and the uncounted lives that had been offered on the altar of autonomy. He described the splendid monument that now occupies the spot where the prison once stood—the monument is crowned with a figure representing the genius of liberty standing on a globe. With one hand she holds the broken chains of slavery, and with the other a bird, emblem of the spirit of liberty. The preacher, with fervor, "Thank God, the keys of that prison now hang in the Washington home at Mt. Vernon." Dr. Baragwanath paid a very fine tribute to France. "Once we somewhat unjustly spoke of her as 'decadent France,' but now with unbounded pride and admiration we speak of her as 'Glorious France'—France which since the miracle of the battle of the Marne has stood unshaken and unafraid—France, which is as lovely in her sacrificial robes as like a priestess, she ministers at the world's altar, as are the ladies embroidered on for-see her God and follow man-made deities, then in her Gethsemane amid the gloom and pain she has once more clutched the flowers of spiritual worship which bloom in the soil reddened by sweat and blood, while at her Calvary, amid the mighty thunderings that clamor across the darkened skies, she has heard the sweet voice of the Christ of God, and she pillows her weary head upon the beating heart of the universe. Her loss has been immeasurable—not so much of territory as of the splendid youth of the land—but she has found something unspeakable precious—she has found herself in finding God."

LUTHERY END.

Body Dropped Into Flower Bed, Says Comrade.

Chicago, Ill., July 16.—The poetic end of the life of Raoul Luthery, the famous American "ace," is described in a letter from Aviator Walter Flannigan to his father, Charles Flannigan, former police sergeant here. Flannigan has been in France six months.

"Luthery made a great fight, but finally jumped from the machine at an altitude of about 3,500 feet," he writes. "He landed in a garden of flowers, and a woman that lived there recognized him and placed lighted candles about his body."

"The English-speaking German prisoners are placed in our sector. A German captain was astonished at the number of American soldiers. He said the people of Germany are told that only a few Yankees are in France and that the troops of the Americans are all being sunk, and that New York has been taken and a German army is marching on Washington to take President Wilson prisoner."

"Say, we will have old Kaiser Bill in the zoo in Lincoln Park next year. We are eating well, get fresh meat and everything down to sweet cookies. We are even getting real American coffee and canned cream. How is that for our good old Uncle Sam?"

PARADE THURSDAY MORNING.

In Honor of the Colored Men Who Entrain for Camp Dix.

Six young colored men of Kingston will leave Thursday morning on the 9:05 o'clock West Shore train for Camp Dix, N. J., and as announced in The Freeman, they will be given a rousing demonstration and parade. The orders as given out by Grand Marshal Atkins will be carried out. The grand marshal requests that all business houses and residences be decorated with Old Glory that day and that every person who can, turn out and give the men a demonstration that will cause them to realize that Kingston and Old Ulster are proud of the spirit shown by their colored citizens.

Entente and Teutonic Resources.

The Entente Allies—excluding Russia and including only those British dominions which are self-governing and only the United States proper—have 11,000,000 square miles of territory, 300,000,000 people, and $495,000,000,000 of national wealth. The Central Powers have 1,250,000 square miles of territory, 147,000,000 people, and $134,000,000,000 of national wealth. The entente owe an aggregate debt of $69,000,000,000, which is about 14 per cent of their total assets. The Central Powers owe $37,000,000,000 or 28 per cent of their national wealth.

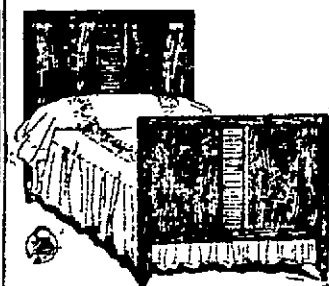

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

July 16, 1898.—Henry Johnston of Rhinebeck held up at Bath Beach and robbed by a negro. Common council talked of paving the Strand and Wall street with asphalt. Fire destroyed hundreds of acres of timber in the Catskills.

July 16, 1908.—Miss Louisa L. Snyder and Layton C. Quackenbush married by the Rev. P. B. Strong. Auto of Mr. and Mrs. David Terry collided with a trolley car. James A. Delaney died at his home on Henry street.

To Complete the Illusion. She—"No, you are too poor. If I washed dishes for a man it might make him look upon me as a servant." He—"Oh, no; you'd have to break them to do that."

GERMAN GAINS SMALL FIRST DAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 16.—The first day of the German offensive on the Marne-Champagne front resulted in the smallest gains of any offensive during the war.

The French were not taken by surprise and ceded ground only near Louain, and Reuilly.

Although the German drive was marked by violent assaults, the French were prepared for it all along the line. A famous war-mutilated French general directed the French defense in the Champagne district.

ANOTHER CALL FOR LIMITED SERVICE

Selective service men may volunteer for this work up to July 23, after which they will be taken until the quota has been filled.

STOLEN WOOL CASE AGAIN IN COURT

Werbalowsky Suing Barney Millens for Amount of Money Paid for Wool Later Seized by State Police as Property of Another.

This morning the suit brought by Julius Werbalowsky against Barney Millens was adjourned by consent to next Monday morning in city court. The suit is brought to recover $42.70, the price paid for some wool and the expense Mr. Werbalowsky was put to when the wool was later seized by the police.

Some time ago, as related in the Freeman at the time, one of the state troopers called at police headquarters seeking assistance of the local police in recovering some wool that had been stolen from Chairman Hardenburgh of Exemption Board No. 2, from his farm at Stone Ridge. Sergeant Phinney located the wool in the store house of Julius Werbalowsky and it was later seized by the state police on a search warrant. Later the matter came up before a justice of the peace and the wool was awarded to Mr. Hardenburgh.

Since then Mr. Werbalowsky has instituted suit against Mr. Millens on the grounds that he had bought the wool in the first place from Mr. Millens and had paid the latter $42.70.

Mr. Werbalowsky stated this morning that Mr. Millens had offered to pay him the sum mentioned, but he also wanted Mr. Millens to pay him for the expense he had been put to in justice's court when the wool was seized by the state police. What Mr. Millens's side of the case is, is not known.

The case promises to be rather interesting. Mr. Werbalowsky is represented by Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier, while N. Frank O'Reilly appears for Mr. Millens.

Child's Patriotism.

Dayton, Ore., July 16.—Juanita Dewell, eleven, cut off her beautiful chestnut curls to help win the war. She then notified an officer of the National Security League that she wished the hair to be sold in Portland, Oregon, and that the money be used in buying War Savings Stamps. Gertrude Atherton, the author, made the first bid on the tresses at $5. The child's explanatory letter is to be sold along with the hair to the highest bidder.

Action is Discontinued.

County Judge Jenkins has granted an order asked for by Raymond G. Cox, attorney for the defendant in the action brought by Sophia Politika against Annie Levison and others, to have the suit discontinued without costs in any of the parties. H. Westlake Coons appeared for the plaintiff.

HOT SESSION OF REICHSRAT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, July 16.—That the session of the Austrian Reichsrat in Vienna will be a critical one today was indicated by the fact that Premier Von Seydler, after holding an audience with Emperor Charles, conferred in secret with the party leaders, said a dispatch from the Austrian capital.

It is rumored that the Polish leaders refused to attend the conference. It is understood that there will likely be serious debates like those held in the German Reichstag under the strictest censorship.

Reported in Delayed Cablegram as Wounded in Action: Corporal Edgar Randerson, Cedar town, Ga.

St. Swithin's Day Rainless. Yesterday, on the anniversary of the good St. Swithin, the sun shone brightly all day. Tradition says that if rain falls on the anniversary of the good saint, then for 40 days it will remain so. If it is fair, the story runs, it will rain no more for 40 days.

THREATEN STRIKE AT BETHLEHEM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 16.—The re- fusal of Mayor Arch Johnston of Bethlehem, Pa., vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, to allow members of the International Association of Machinists to hold a busi- ness meeting in that city tomorrow night was brought to the attention of Attorney General Gregory this afternoon by the national war labor board, to whom complaint was made by the association.

In making the complaint Dave Williams, business agent of the as- sociation, said that serious trouble is threatened in Bethlehem tomorrow night, due to the mayor's refusal to allow the meeting.

W. Jett Lauck, secretary of the war labor board, stated that the International Association of Machin- ists, is "a legitimate organization of high standing and has been formally recognized by the war and navy de- partments, and the emergency fleet corporation as a medium through which stoppage of war work on es- sential government contracts has been prevented during the war."

MILLION DOLLAR
FLORIDA FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 16.—The big fertilizer plant of the American Chemical Company here was de- stroyed by fire today with a loss of more than $1,000,000. Nitrates and other chemicals destroyed bring the loss into seven figures. Forty rail- road cars loaded with nitrates and fertilizer were destroyed. The cause of the fire has not yet been de- termined. The plant will be rebuilt at once.

NEW GRAND JURY FOR TOLISHUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, July 16.—An extra- ordinary panel of federal grand jurors to hear evidence in the case of Attorney John A. Tolishus, charged with disloyalty has been drawn. The talesmen are ordered to appear before Judge Ray of United States court at 2 p. m. next Monday.

Evidence will then be taken by Assistant District Attorney D. Al- vord and Frances P. Walsh. Two government witnesses will leave soon for camp with a draft con- tingent.

The grand jury which indicted Tolishus, and revoked the indict- ment will not be recalled. Instead a new grand jury has been called.

News From Camp Wagon.

Camp Wagon, the official camp of Kingston Council, Boy Scouts of America, is now on its second week of joyful existence on the Esopus creek. Everything is running smooth- ly and the Scouts all vote Camp Wagon "the best ever."

So far but one draw back has been noted and that is a lack of boats. Anyone having a boat to sell or loan the boys for their summer camp is asked to notify A. G. Carr, the chair- man of the camp committee.

Personal Notes.

Paul Linson lives for one sole end; the hour when the "store" will open.

Fred Carr would walk two miles for a piece of chocolate cake.

Eddie Mahar caught a pickerel, 18 inches long—very nearly as big as Eddie himself. When the fish "struck" it upset the canoe and thereby three Scouts got "ducked."

Paul Linson pestered the life out of the cook last week, until the watermelon was carved. Paul is no pacifist when he wants anything.

"Ren" Carr still insists on diving "sitting down."

Everything is in ship-shape at Camp Wagon now and visitors will be cordially welcomed. In the very near future there will probably be fish every day at Camp Wagon, maybe at every meal, for the Carr boys have new fish poles.

"Quartermaster" Beehler fishes so constantly that when he "comes out" the fish leap out of the water to look for him.

George Walters has his canoe out here now and it is greatly appreci- ated, even if it has "upside" so many times that the Scouts call it "The Yellow Peril."

All friends of scouting or Kingston Scouts are hereby invited to come out and see the camp for them- selves.

(Signed) HERBERT BIRCHER, Camp Director, Camp Wagon.

Count One For Lofer Law.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Troy, N. Y., July 16.—William O'Connell of South Troy is working today for the first time in 26 years. O'Connell was arrested charged with violating the anti-loafing law. LYNN C. E. PLANT COMPLETELY IDLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lynn, Mass., July 16.—Fifteen iron moulders, the only workers re- maining in the plant of the General Electric Company, walked out to- day.

Thirteen thousand persons are now on strike at the West Lynn and river plants.

Labor leaders have received word that the 65,000 employees of the Schenectady, Pittsfield and Fort Wayne, Ind., plants are threatening to walk out in a sympathetic strike. The strikers are demanding the right to organize.

A representative of the depart- ment of commerce and one from the department of labor are expected here today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 16.—The stock market opened strong today with ad- vances ranging from fractions to over two points. American Sumatra recorded the greatest gain, starting at 128 1/4 and then rose to 129 1/4, a gain of nearly three points, and then promptly receded to 126 1/4, followed by a rally to 127 1/4. Union Pacific gained 1 1/4 to 122 1/4 and fractional advances were scored in the other railroad stocks. U. S. Steel started one point higher at 104 1/4 and then reacted to 103 1/4. Baldwin showed a gain of 3/4 at 87 1/4, from which it dropped to 86 1/4. Bethlehem Steel B opened 3/4 higher at 81 and then dropped 1/2, while Midvale showed a gain of 1 1/2 to 51 1/4. Marine Preferred, after moving up 1/4 to 96 1/4, fell to 95 1/4. General Motors moved 1 1/2 to 152 and Reading showed a gain of one point to 88 1/4.

The market continued steady dur- ing the afternoon, but trading was very dull. Steel Common held around 104 1/4. Marine Preferred moved up 1/2 to 97 1/4 and International Paper was 178. Baldwin re- acted from 87 1/4 to 86 1/4.

The stock market closed firm to- day. Government bonds unchanged. Railway and other bonds steady.

GERMAN ARMIES CONTINUE ASSAULT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 16 (1 p. m.)—The great battle on the Marne-Champagne front is still raging with General Von Below's and General Von Boehm's German armies continuing their assaults.

It is difficult to say whether or not the whole offensive has been repulsed, but the evidence at hand shows that it was intended for Germany's biggest drive and was not a diversion.

Thirty German divisions already have been identified, mostly from the army of Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria.

Rheims is still held by the French. The German attacks have been repulsed with the heaviest possible losses. The situation on the allied side is distinctly good and the French are entirely satisfied with it.

East of Rheims two German attacks were delivered, with tanks in the sectors of Souain and Prunay. In the latter district a wood was captured; elsewhere the Germans were repulsed. The line of resistance from one to two miles behind the front trenches is everywhere intact east of Rheims.

West of Rheims the two main German attacks were directed:

- 1.—Down the Marne.
- 2.—Due south of Dormans.

The Germans threw six pontoon bridges across the Marne between Dormans and Reuilly, on a four mile front.

The capture of a German aeroplane map showed that one of the enemy's chief attacks was to be directed down the Marne in the direction of Epernay.

Railroad Women.

Philadelphia, July 16.—More than 1,400 women have been employed by the eastern lines of the Pennsylvania railroad during June to do every kind of work, from cleaning locomotives to leading track gangs. Before the war, women were rarely taken into the railroad's service, but since it began 9,554 have been employed. This is an increase of 1,945 over last year. Women are now working in sixty-nine classified occupations on Pennsylvania roads and have invaded manual labor, which formerly regarded as being filled only by men.

GAZLAY HAD FINE VOYAGE ACROSS

Is Surprised to Find the Old Country Behind America in Engineering Work—Air is Full of Machines.

Supply Co. 309, H. F. A. Ordnance Detachment, American Ex-Force. June 14, 1918.

Dear Folks:

Suppose you have already received word that I landed safely. However I cannot explain to you all I would like of our voyage. I will tell some of our experiences on the sea. It was very surprising to me to be able to sight birds each day. Some of them seem to live on the water, but I don't know about how it is when they come to hatch, whether they build a nest in a wave or not, but if they do I know the young birds will be quite well shooed up. I saw a couple of whales and some sharks and many other large fish. A few days the sea was very rough and quite a number of the fellows were seasick, although I can say I did not miss a single meal or was sick at all, and enjoyed the trip, although it is a little inconvenient at times.

Sometimes the waves came up so high they dashed water over the deck. We had a good convoy, however, and I hoped a sub would show up for a little sport. I was well aware if he did he would be a goner. Well, as luck would have it, one morning one made an attempt but was driven off without any damage being done to our convoy. After we landed lots of the girls marched up the streets with us and wanted to carry our packs for us. They seem to think a lot of Uncle Sam's soldiers.

The country looks real nice. They are working in harvest, women, girls and aged men work, also young boys, but I was a little surprised on one situation; that was the mechanical engineering. I thought being this is an older country than ours that it would be more up to date, but I'll tell you what, Dear Old Uncle Sam has the apple sauce spread all over their griddle cakes. If you could see the railway trains you would say they are dinky cars or toys.

Well, the capacity of the freight cars are ten tons, just a load for one of our small auto trucks. When they load lumber in them one end is in, the other out; that is if there is any length to it at all. One car has but four wheels and when they jump off the track the trainmen get out and lift it right back on again, so you see that is one advantage. Of course, you can believe most of this, but don't believe any more than half you see and nothing you hear, although quite a bit of this is facts.

The sun don't go down until about 9 o'clock and comes up again about 3, so it's day time most of the time. I suppose you folks have just finished your dinner. I just put my supper away.

The air is about as full of machine as it is of birds here. Well, I would appreciate a line from anyone at any time. Use above address. As ever,

Private CARL M. GAZLAY.

JEFFERSON LEAGUE ENDORSES IRWIN

As Democratic Candidate for Governor—Postmaster DeWitt and Other Leaders of League Also Select Delegates and Hold Talkfest.

The Jefferson League held its first political meeting of the season Monday evening to which all Democrats in good standing had been invited, and among other matters taken up they adopted a resolution endorsing ex-Mayor Roscoe Irwin as the Jefferson League's candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket. Undoubtedly when the state convention hears of what the Jefferson League has done it will lose not a moment in accepting Mr. Irwin as the official candidate.

That the Jefferson League is striving to keep harmony in the party ranks was shown by the fact that in selecting delegates to attend the state convention to be held at Saratoga they selected ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, a well known Bryan man, and an active member of the Old Guard of the Democratic party; Judge James A. Betts, another Democratic war horse of the Old Guard, and the third delegate selected was J. J. McGrath of Phoenixia to represent the Young Turks.

In order to see that the three delegates carry out the wishes of the Jefferson League a committee was named to accompany them including Senator Jacob Rice, ex-Mayor Morris Block, Postmaster W. C. DeWitt, Water Commissioner William Roach, A. B. Hornbeck, former Police Commissioner William F. Refferty, Postmaster Kenney and Dr. O'Day of Saugerties, and "others."

Candidates Won't Accept.

While the Democrats in good standing were seated in the main club room of the Jefferson League the leaders of the league met and talked over candidates. From what leaked out it developed the fact that Jacob V. Merrinew and Holt N. Winfield, who had been prominently mentioned for county clerk would hardly accept the nomination offered them by the Jefferson League. Mr. Merrinew is from the town of Olive and Mr. Winfield from the town of Esopus.

Mahar May Take It.

The choice of the Jefferson League leaders finally simmered down to John E. Mahar, the genial superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, and it is said that Mr. Mahar is willing. In order to make sure the leaders decided to take the matter up again at an adjourned meeting.

Accept Judge Jenkins.

The Jefferson League decided that it would be the best policy to accept Judge Jenkins as the league's candidate for county judge, and not even another was whispered as a candidate.

Mrs. Michaels to be Something.

One of the members of the Old Guard who attended the meeting when seen today said he was seated in the rear of the room and did not hear everything that was said, but his impression was that Mrs. M. J. Michaels, the efficient member of the board of health, was mentioned for candidate for member of assembly. Either that or for appointment on some "important committee." It was one thing or the other but he was not positive just what it was.

Mrs. Michaels has long been active in Kingston fighting for woman's right to vote, and has the distinction of being Kingston's first police woman. This latter honor was conferred upon her during the regime of Dr. L. K. Stelle as health officer, when Dr. Stelle, Mrs. Michael and other members of the health board paid a visit to the famous Ellsworth pig pen on Lucas avenue. What occurred there at that time led Mrs. Michael being sworn in as a special officer with the power to make arrests if she deemed it necessary.

She is now away on her vacation and will not be aware of the honor the Jefferson League is contemplating conferring on her until she reads it in The Freeman.

Will Hold Another Session.

The "leaders" of the Jefferson League after a careful glance over the Democrats in good standing who attended the meeting Monday evening, decided it would be best to hold another meeting later in the month and July 25 was fixed upon as the tentative date.

Invitations will be extended to those wanted at the conference when it is held.

The Official Resolution.

The official resolution endorsing ex-Mayor Irwin, as given out today by the Jefferson League reads as follows:

Resolved, that it is the sense of the Democrats of Ulster county in conference assembled at the Jeffersonian League rooms in Kingston, N. Y., July 15th., 1918, that Hon. Roscoe Irwin is the most suitable, competent and experienced man that could be named from this section of the great state of New York for the nomination of governor this year on the Democratic state ticket; as city judge of Kingston years, mayor of Kingston 4 years and collector of internal revenue at Albany 5 years, Roscoe Irwin has ably and signally administered the varied duties of these offices. We strongly endorse

Her 57th Birthday.

Mrs. George L. Wachmeyer of No. 11 Hone street is quietly celebrating her 57th birthday today.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, July 16.—A rare treat will be given the village people on Thursday evening at Norbury hall, when Sergeant Ruth Farnum of the Royal Serbian army, the only American woman soldier in the allied army, will tell of her experiences in the retreat of the Serbians through the Albanian mountains and the terrible battle that preceded it. Sergeant Farnum was born in a sleepy Loug Island village, but her married life was spent in England. Since the outbreak of the war she has worked among the Serbians constantly until now she has come to the United States to tell her experiences. Sergeant Farnum comes under the auspices of the Red Cross, through the courtesy of the M. E. Church, who had a prior claim on her services.

The communion of the Lord's Supper was observed at the Reformed Church Sunday morning, with reception of members. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. Walter S. Maines.

Miss May F. Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Potter, accompanied her aunt, Mrs. Saul Porter, home to Syracuse on Saturday for a summer visit.

The Misses Carolyn and May Hitchcock spent the week-end with their mother with B. C. Eaton and family at their camp up the VerNooy Kill, above Hillsdale.

Miss Helen Cooley of Spring Valley, accompanied by her friend, Miss Stevenson, spent the week-end with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dutcher.

Frank Fitzpatrick and daughters, Misses Ellen and Katherine, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with his brother-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Duggan, on Center street. The girls are to remain for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Cleary of Brooklyn, have been spending some days in town stopping at the Mitchell House.

Mrs. C. P. Turner of Harrisburg, Pa., has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. C. Robinson, on North street.

Miss Nell M. Hardenbergh of New York is spending the summer vacation at her home on Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bunting have gone to Wilmington, Delaware, where Mr. Bunting has taken a position at his trade.

Artist Henry's many friends are pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his serious illness at the Topping Sanitarium as to be able to take a short drive about town.

Mrs. Laura Morse Webb of New York, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. V. Keeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown have received two very interesting letters from their son, Austin Brown, now in France. Austin was pleased to meet his friend, Frank Douglas, of Ellenville, somewhere in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar S. Terwilliger and Mrs. Albert V. Porter attended the burial of their cousin, Mrs. Abram T. DeWitt at Phillipsport, N. Y., on Friday last. Funeral services of Mrs. DeWitt were held at her late home in New York and the body brought to her old home town for burial. Deceased was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William U. Sherwood, well known citizens of the town and her age was 55 years. Surviving are her husband and one daughter, Ilma, wife of William Snable.

John Ludlow, in the U. S. service for some time in the west, has been spending a short furlough with his wife at the Small's home on Cape avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham returned from their wedding trip on Sunday and on Monday Mr. Graham went to join his ship San Diego, where he holds the rating as first musician in the U. S. S.

A large list of new books have been added to the Ellenville public library, which includes several of the latest war books: "Outwitting the Hun," by Lieut. Pat O'Brien, "Kitchen's Mob," J. M. Hall; "The War and Humanity," J. M. Beck; "Private Peat," H. B. Peat; "1st Hundred Thousand," James Nay; "Gallipoli," John Masfield; "A Minstrel in France," Harry Lander; "A Soldier of the Legion," "Moslar," and others. Also a number of excellent books of fiction.

Motion Pictures at Rosendale.

The Battle of Arras, one of the greatest war pictures ever made, will be shown Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock in St. Peter's Hall, Rosendale. The picture is in six reels and has been obtained through the courtesy of the United Booking Company of New York. It has been shown only in the Keith Circuit and allied theatres. Recently the Keith circuit paid $300,000 for the exclusive use of the picture. There will also be one reel comedy picture. Following the showing of the picture there will be a reception and dance. Admission including dancing 25 cents.

LOADING SHIPS.

Much Improvement Being Made in This Direction.

Economies of approximately 20 per cent in shipping weight and 50 per cent in shipping space have resulted from improved methods of packing merchandise for overseas practice by the Army Quartermaster Corps. This is equivalent to about 2,500 tons space per month.

For the shipment of clothing and equipment, including such items as blankets, barrack bags, towels, shelter tent halves, bedding, and other dry goods, in addition to wearing apparel, baling has been substituted for boxing, and the weight of the lumber has been saved. The bales average 30 by 15 by 15 inches and weigh 50 pounds. They are bound with not less than four cold rolled, unannealed steel bands. Burlap over waterproof heavy paper is used to cover the bales, and there are two "ears" on either end of the bale for handling.

Women are stevedores on the docks in France. There is a law they shall not be required to carry packages weighing more than 70 pounds. Packages shipped to the American Expeditionary Forces are standardized so they shall not weigh more than 70 pounds for handling by one woman carrier or more than 140 pounds by two women carriers. Men handle the heavier packages and the boxes that must be used instead of bales.

The Quartermaster Corps recommends to manufacturers supplying the army many similar economies in packing and shipping which will result in even more pronounced space and weight saving. Round cans and containers entail a waste in space of 23 per cent. Square containers are urged. It is estimated that every inch saved through bale compression is worth 65 cents in ship space.

TWIN BROTHERS ARE CORPORALS IN AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE

The Sullivan brothers, twins, are sons of Mrs. James J. Sullivan of Rogers street, this city, where they are widely known and very popular. Their cheery and humorous letters to their mother which have been printed in The Freeman have made for them many new friends and cheered the heart of many a soldier's mother in Ulster county.

LITTLE MOTHER
LITTLE DADDIE

How Many Children in Kingston Will Adopt a French Child Left Fatherless in the World War?

The Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, pastor of Rondout Presbyterian Church, while attending the annual assembly of the Presbytery at Columbus, O., two weeks ago, suggested that the church start a movement for the adoption of French children who have been made fatherless in this war.

"It seems to me," said this patriotic clergyman, who in the busy time of large church matters, did not forget the suffering children, "that when the French children's forefathers had come to the aid of our forefathers at the critical period of our national life, the time had now come for us to help them."

He hadn't received any response to the suggestion. He says it seemed impracticable to bring the children over and was really the understanding of the matter as it was then discussed.

These children are not brought over here. Nor are they taken to any institution. They are left in the home provided and supported by thousands of their foster parents, little and big, and their own mothers are left to look after them. That is a guarantee of the care they will get.

Both mothers and children in their own homes or in the refuge they have obtained when they have been driven from their homes, are under the personal supervision of the American women who carry to them the means for their support.

Every cent you put in to adopt a French child goes for clothing and feeding a French child.

If it is ten cents which supports one child one day that ten cents goes to that support.

The cost of doing all this is paid out of special funds. This is guaranteed to Ulster county people by the Woman's Home Defense of this county.

Ten cents adopts one French child in Sunny France for one day. Three dollars for one month.

All of Ulster county will be glad to learn from The Freeman the names of our children who are little foster mothers and little foster daddies.

Mrs. Charles De La Vergne, chairman of the home and foreign relief committee, is the treasurer for this fund, to whom it should be sent, care of the Woman's Home Defense, Main street, city.

A TREAT FOR THE BOYS.

Alderman Mann Ready to Hear From Prospective Contributors.

Heretofore when the National Army men have left for camp Alderman Ralph Mann has presented them with a supply of fruit. The next contingent will be so large that the alderman thinks others should be invited to join in so that the supply of fruit, candy, tobacco and cigars will be ample to last the boys for a few days. Anyone desiring to contribute should consult Alderman Mann either in person or by telephone without delay.

New York's Iron Cow.

New York, July 16.—Battery Park now has an "iron cow" which gives pure, rich milk for two cents a glass to all the poor of that part of Manhattan. Soldiers, sailors and members of the Coast Guard daily in the park need only to wear their uniforms to get milk without charge. The daily rush is so great that many soldiers and sailors take delight in helping the "iron cow" assistants in washing the glasses and serving the welcome beverage. And with the milk-drinking people of that part of Manhattan Nathan Straus, philanthropist, who is solely responsible for the "iron cow," is nothing less than a hero.

Whose Flivver?

An abandoned 1915 Ford car was found on the west end of Dyke and Tongore road by W. C. Davis of New York. The license number was 680-319 and the car number 591,068. There was no gasoline and the tires were flat.

Canning Plums.

By Lauro Buffum.

(Domestic Science expert of the National War Garden Commission, Washington, D. C.)

The Greengage, Yellow Egg and Lombard are good varieties of plums used for canning. Sound, firm fruit should be selected, not quite prime for table use. Stem, wash, grade and prick each plum to prevent bursting. Use a large needle for pricking which may be omitted when a large quantity is to be canned and time is limited. Send a 2-cent stamp for the free canning manual which the National War Garden Commission, Washington, will send to you upon request.

Pack plums in jar and cover with boiling syrup of medium grade. This is prepared by using one part sugar to two parts water. Put on rubber and top. Adjust top ball or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 16 minutes in hot water bath or ten minutes at five to ten pounds' steam pressure. Remove, seal tight and cool. The commission will gladly answer any questions written on one side of the paper and sent in a self-addressed stamped envelope.

FOURTH LOAN.

Bonds Will Be Ready For Immediate Delivery.

Bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan are now being turned out by the thousands daily by the Treasury's Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The bonds are similar in form and design to those of the third loan, and space has been left on each bond for insertion of the exact terms of the bonds.

It is believed that a sufficient number of the bonds will be ready to make possible immediate delivery of all bonds of the fourth loan as they are purchased.

OUR TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Just a word to express our appreciation for the support and patronage we have received during 21 years of business life.

We frequently hear people say "I have bought nearly everything I needed at this store ever since it started." Others say "I didn't know there was such a store in Rondout. I'm glad I came and you'll see me again soon."

Our growth year after year has been steady and substantial. Starting our twenty-second page of business history we can truly say we'll do our best to serve you faithfully with good merchandise at the lowest possible prices. We believe Kingston has a large future. The Rondout section has awakened to new life and activities scarcely dreamed of during the years of peaceful slumber.

We're just beginning to realize our possibilities, the future depends upon our own efforts. With everybody working and all boosting the coming years will be the best ever.

IN SETTLEMENT OF LARGE ESTATE

Surrogate Directs Distribution of Estate of Late John C. Brookman of West Park Amounting to Over $6,000,000.

The account of Judge Augustus N. Hand and Donald S. Walker, as surviving executors of and trustees under the last will and testament of John C. Brookman of West Park, in the town of Esopus, in this county, was approved by Surrogate Gill on Monday morning, and a decree granted passing the same and directing the distribution of the assets in the hands of the trustees as directed by the will. Mr. Brookman, who was a wealthy resident of the town of Esopus for many years, died in January, 1914, leaving an estate which according to the account of the executors, amounts at this time to $6,561,431.79. Under the law as it existed at the time of his death, the trustees of his estate, represented by Judge Clearwater, paid to County Treasurer John A. Snyder $418,000, the amount of the transfer tax upon the estate as fixed by Surrogate Gill. There are many beneficiaries under the will, among them being the Episcopal Church of the Ascension at West Park, and the Methodist and Baptist Churches at that place, and several other religious and educational institutions. The trustees on the account yesterday were represented by Rushmore, Bisbee and Stern of New York, and by Judge Clearwater, Ilcocker and Tuckerman of New York represented Marion Prantice Brookman as general guardian of John Van Neck, and as testamentary guardian of Amory S. Carhart and Marion Renee Carhart, and Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared as the special guardian of the other infants, and as the attorney for Harold Gillespie Cushman, an officer in the military service of the United States.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

The world war evidently has not interfered with the work of Dan Cupid in Kingston during June, the bridal month, for City Clerk Doremus stated today that during June he had issued 31 marriage licenses, which is three more than June of last year.

Monday but one new case of measles was reported to the health board.

This is the last week that water rents may be paid with no penalty attached and it is likely that is the reason why the water board office is so busy.

The silent cop on Broadway near the Y. M. C. A. was placed on the retired list Monday by George Ackley of 8 Sterling street. Mr. Ackley paid the hospital bill.

With the political pot beginning to boil politicians are starting to wonder just what effect the women vote will have on election in Kingston. The general impression of those "in the know" seems to be that the women will not vote as heavily this year as they did when the local option question was up.

Probably that was one reason why the city fathers in redistricting the city only increased the number of election districts seven, making twenty. If the women vote was heavy it would have meant that there would have been 28 instead of 20 districts.

Sometimes even politicians are fooled, however. Still the question will likely be definitely settled in November. Present indications point to the fact that the women will not turn out and vote their full strength unless some moral issue is up for settlement.

Property owners should get busy and cut the weeds about their property. It is said on some streets the weeds are full three feet tall. It is likely the matter will be taken up by the board of public works unless action is taken sooner by the property owners themselves.

WAR-TIME HINTS FOR THE LOYAL HOUSEWIFE.

Fish for food as well as for pleasure, suggests the United States Food Administration to the thousands of families who spend several weeks every summer in cottages on lakes and streams. Fish as a substitute for meat has long been urged, and now that the shortage of beef is again serious it is desirable to increase the use of fish.

Fishing has an added charm when one's dinner depends on the outcome, and the sport of camp cookery should be more attractive in a game to see how many delicious ways the fresh catch can be prepared for the table.

Besides fried, baked and stuffed fish, there are other means of preparation which adapt themselves readily to camp kitchens.

Fish Chowder.

Three lbs. fish, 4 tablespoons dripping, 1 medium onion, chopped fine, 1 quart sliced potatoes, 3 cups of hot milk.

Skin and bone the fish and cut into inch cubes. Cover the bone and trimmings with cold water and let simmer for one-half hour. Cook the onion in the fat for five minutes in a stew pan.

Parboil the sliced potatoes for five minutes, then drain and add layers of fish and potatoes to the fat and onion in the stew-pan. Season each layer with salt and pepper. Strain the liquid in which the fish bones have been boiling over all, and cook about twenty minutes until fish and potatoes are tender. Then add the scalded milk. If desired thicker, sprinkle a little corn meal between each layer of fish and potatoes.

The following sauces may be served with fish to add variety:

Vegetable Sauce.

Add one-half cup of green peas, chopped celery, asparagus, cauliflower, or mushrooms to one cup of white sauce. Season well and serve with fish balls.

Cheese Sauce.

Add one-half cup of grated cheese to one cup of white sauce. Use paprika instead of pepper in making sauce.

WINTER USE OF DRIED PRODUCTS.

By Ellen I. Kelley.

(Director, Department of Household Science, National War Garden Commission, Washington, D. C.)

The reward for past labors and the pleasure of working out a process to the finish comes to the housewife when she takes her dried products to prepare for table use in the winter. Send to the National War Garden Commission, Washington, for a free drying manual, which will be sent you upon request. Enclose a 2-cent stamp to cover postage. It should be remembered that the amount of water dried out of vegetables or fruits must be largely restored before they are in proper condition for cooking. This takes time.

As a general rule, the longer the time required for drying, the longer the time necessary to restore the moisture content. This is done by soaking in cold water. The soaking products should be kept in a cool place. Fruits may be soaked overnight.

Allow three to four times as much water as dried product and cook in the same water. This water in which the products have been soaked, contains some of the mineral salts or, some of the juices, and is therefore of value.

Avoid over-soaking. Dried, sliced beets, if soaked too long, lose their red color and good flavor. Soaking for two hours (two parts water to one part beet) should be enough. Corn is another product which, not going to be content with merely

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus, in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Wednesday.

Breakfast—Rolled oats, top milk with shredded coconut, fish and potato balls, coffee.
Lunch or Supper—Scalloped potatoes, Conservation loaf bread, Neaple with cottage cheese dressing.

Dinner—Stuffed cabbage, Potato fritters, Tomato and green pepper salad, Deep-dish apple pie.
*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.
Even left-over scalloped potatoes can be and must be conserved. They are delicious when fried and, if not too moist, they may make their re-appearance on the table in the form of individual fried cakes.

Fish and Potato Balls.
2 cups mashed potatoes, 1 1/2 cups

shredded fish (freshened slightly and par-boiled until soft), 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter 1 tablespoon milk.

To the mashed potatoes add the fish, the butter and the milk. Beat the mixture until it is light. Add the egg which has been well-beaten. Drop spoonfuls of this mixture into a pan containing a small amount of fat and brown the patties on both sides.

Stuffed Cabbage.
1 medium-sized cabbage, 2-3 cup cold meat ground, 2-3 cup cold cooked cereal (barley, rice or hominy), 1 onion, minced, 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper, paprika, chopped parsley, minced pimiento, 2-3 cup buttered bread crumbs, stock or hot water.

Remove the center from a head of cabbage, leaving a wall about 2 inches thick. Parboil the cabbage in salted water for 10 minutes, drain it, and save the water for soup. Place it in a baking pan, and fill the cavity with the remaining ingredients mixed together. Sprinkle the buttered crumbs over the top, pour a small quantity of meat stock or cabbage water into the pan, and bake the cabbage in a moderate oven for about 35 minutes, or until it is tender.

Cottage Cheese Dressing.
1/2 cup cottage cheese, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, paprika.

Mix cheese and yolk thoroughly. Add oil, vinegar and seasoning slowly and beat well.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Storm at Whitfield.

The family of Simon P. Hornbeck and a number of guests were startled Sunday afternoon when lightning struck the Hornbeck home. Coming some time after the storm had apparently ceased, the bolt entered one corner of the house, zig-zagged its way along the metallic ceilings through several rooms before making its exit. Fortunately, while most of the family and guests were right in the path way of the electric fluid, no one was injured, although considerable damage was done to the house.

Woman's Home Defense Meeting.

The Woman's Home Defense Committee of Ulster county will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Holt N. Winfield in Ulster Park on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Speakers will be in attendance and important topics will be discussed. All are cordially invited to be present.

LARKIN'S STORE CLOSED TO-DAY

Clerks are working night and day putting the stock of the well known downtown shoe merchant, John J. Larkin, in shape for the big sale which he will conduct, beginning at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, July 18. The store will remain closed until that hour. Further particulars and partial price list will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.

WALKER ENJOYS A BUSY AFTERNOON

Motorcycle Officer Andy Walker is making a record—Monday's Bag Totaled Three Violators of Traffic Law.

Motorcycle Officer Andy Walker is making a record for himself since he assumed his duties as Kingston's first motorcycle cop, and Monday's bag of prisoners totaled three. Speeders and those who make a practice of driving on the left hand side of the street, as well as those who drive by a trolley car discharging passengers had best beware in the future.

Kasper Lowenstein of Brooklyn was caught speeding on Broadway Monday afternoon between St. James street and Pine Grove avenue and was hauled up short by Officer Walker. Later Kasper enriched the city treasurer to the extent of $3.

Lester D. Livingston of Brooklyn was caught passing a trolley car discharging passengers on the left hand side of the street. Lester also forgot to give any signal at all. He was fined $5.

M. F. Whited was caught speeding at 38 miles an hour on Albany avenue by Officer Walker and gave cash bail for his appearance in court Wednesday afternoon.

Other Cases.

Thomas W. Moffit, who was arrested on Sunday by Officer Martin for passing a trolley car discharging passengers, forfeited his cash bail of $5 by failing to appear in court Monday. He lives in New York.

The famous laundry case was settled in police court Monday afternoon when Morris Newgold, proprietor of the Overlook Mountain House, was discharged. He made restitution. It developed from the evidence that one of his employees had taken some blankets to Kingston to a laundry. Mr. Newgold called at the Dolan laundry and was given blankets that belonged to another hotel.

NAVY PHOTOS.

The Department to Perpetuate Memory of Dead.

The navy department is collecting photographs of enlisted men who lose their lives in the war that their memory may be perpetuated. Secretary Daniels asks relatives or others having such photographs to lend them to the navy that copies may be made for the navy's records. Originals will be returned to the owners as fast as copies can be made.

A photograph of each man is to be forwarded by the navy department to the training station where he began his career in the service. At each of such stations a memorial gallery of honor or a hero's corner is to be established so that for all time the face of the man of the navy who has made the supreme sacrifice may be honored by the youth of the future sent to the station for training.

All pictures, loaned or contributed, should be securely wrapped for mailing after they have been marked with the name, branch of service, and training station the young man entered after enlistment. The should be addressed to the Recruiting Division, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Care will be taken to return safely the photograph to the sender, when desired, together with one of the copies made of it.

U. S. Revenues.

The internal-revenue collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 last totaled $3,572,000,000. The collections for the preceding year were $3,000,000,000. This year's collections exceed by nearly $572,000,000 the estimates made when the war revenue measure was passed by congress last year. Four thousand persons were employed in the work and the total cost of the collection was only $12,000,000. The patriotism roused by the war contributed largely to the success of the work, and the taxpayers assisted and co-operated with the government. A determined effort will be made to bring to book tax evaders in every part of the country. The treasury already has evidence against a large number who have sought to evade taxes, and by checking up contracts and with other data the government expects finally to discover and punish many tax evaders, as well as recover large amounts of revenue illegally withheld.

PORT EWEN MAN'S LIFE IN FRANCE

Private Harry E. Schryver, 14th Railway Engineers, One of First Ulster County Men in France, Relates Some of His Experiences.

Private Harry E. Schryver, Company E, 14th Engineers (Railway), a native of Port Ewen and in his early youth an employee of The Freeman, was one of the first Ulster county men in France, having sailed with his regiment for England shortly after the United States entered the war. Several letters have been printed in The Freeman and the following account of his experiences—half letter, half diary—evidently written in odd hours as a pastime, came to the managing editor of The Freeman, with whom Private Schryver was associated more than 20 years ago, in several installments.

Christmas in Camp.

Today is Christmas. Five broke camp to start for our long journey. Snow had fallen several times during the day but not enough to cause inconvenience. A heavy, raw wind is now sweeping through the valley. From what our experience has been when the wind blows, we forecast another rainy period of two to seven days. Last night and today our thoughts have been of home and the loved ones we left behind. But we cannot allow our feelings to interfere with our work here. Much depends upon the efficiency of our regiment or any other similar regiment that has ever been in active service. Grave responsibility rests upon the shoulders of every man whose work is on the line behind the lines—sometimes into the lines. They must be men who are not afraid to continue their work under conditions that are very trying to nerves at times. But they often get times to relax and enjoy pleasures. And how Co. E enjoyed an entertainment the night before Christmas, you can judge from the following description of our entertainment and distribution of gifts Christmas Eve at the British Y. M. C. A. hut at Port Ewen.

The hut had been generously donated for the sole use of the company by permission of British authorities for the evening only. Many officers of other companies were present by invitation. They were the only ones allowed to be present with our company. It was a reunion of Co. E. Many of the men present Christmas Eve were men from the stations and places within a radius of 50 miles from Headquarters. Men whom I had not seen since we were assigned in various groups to stations along the "Suicide Line" (narrow gauge lines). And it was mighty good for us to mingle together again and renew the old acquaintance that had begun at our camp in America. During a period of ten days a number of officers worked hard to insure the success of the entertainment. Orders were dispatched wherever an E Company man was stationed with instructions to relieve them from their work on Christmas Eve, and to proceed to Regimental Headquarters, so as to arrive there not later than 6 o'clock Christmas Eve. At our control station were six men of Company E. The other six men relieved us and we walked "down" to Regimental Headquarters arriving there a half hour before the stated time. While we were greeting men we had not seen for four months, a heavy rain began and continued while we formed ranks, marched to and entered the Y. M. C. A. hut. The men had brought their haversacks and mess kits, as per orders, and accommodations were provided for checking them. When all were inside and seated, I was much surprised at the neatness and appearance of the company. When the company reported at camp in America, anyone would have had little trouble to pick out the men who had had work inside the open air. But Christmas Eve as I glanced over the entire company and invited guests, no such difference existed. Every man had a dark, healthy color. Every eye was clear and bright with anticipation. A few sported a mustache, but the majority were clean shaven. Every man looked his part as a representative of America's first picked forces that began work on the railways in France. In the company while at camp in America were many who were young boys. From their appearance now, I really believe their parents and friends would hardly recognize them as the same "boys" who had left them only a short time ago. The boyish look and jokes had changed to a serious look and silence. They know and understand better now. And I write you that I did feel mighty proud to know I was with them and could feel the spirit of that reunion as deeply as anyone there, when I again met my friends after four months' absence.

Christmas Entertainment.

The hut was decorated with bunting of our national colors. In one end of the hut was a large Christmas tree decorated in a manner that caused me to wonder where the material had been bought in France. How it did remind me of the larger ones we often saw in Madison Square, New York city? The entertainment consisted of speeches, songs, recitations, instrumental music, clog-dancing, sleight-of-hand performances, comedy work, monologues and finally, the decoration of several men with "joke" medals. Our mess-sergeant received a small toy cow and was reminded that it was probably the cow which had furnished the milk to the men where I am stationed. One corporal had earned the nickname of "President of the Store-pipe Committee" and his present was a length of old, rusty stove-pipe, with a request for a speech. They couldn't feaze him! He earned the applause of all by his speech. The men from the "Cuckoos" hut and the "Doughnut" squads were in great demand. Men were picked from the audience to do "their bit." They dared not refuse. It is surprising to learn what a large amount of unknown talent and fun you can find among a large number of men. Everyone was having a great treat until someone moved among the men and whispered to a number, who arose and left at once. We knew unexpected orders had been received, and our sympathy went out to those men picked for the order, and (as we later learned) several others who had been picked for a similar errand just before we marched to the hall. The departure of the picked men acted like a damper, but we soon overcame that and forgot it had occurred. (Business before pleasure always with this regiment.) Finally we sang our camp song. One verse and chorus is as follows:

The Boomers! The Boomers!
With the dirt behind their cars
The Boomers! The Boomers!
That lap up all the beers.
The infantry, the cavalry, and the rest of the Engineers.
They couldn't whip the Boomers
In a hundred thousand years.

Chorus.

Glorious! Glorious! What's one can do for all of us.
Thanks be to the Lord there are no more of us.
When one of us could drink it all alone.

This song was composed by men known as "The Boomers" at our camp in America. "The Boomers" were men who were in camp training but unassigned to any company. They were later assigned to companies, but the song remains as a memory of those days. There are other verses. Sometimes I may send them all.

But No Christmas Gifts.

Then came the time for the distribution of Christmas gifts and packages. The men were very quiet as our captain stated that the regimental Christmas gifts had arrived at a French city December 18th but had not been sent to Headquarters yet at that hour, but not to be disappointed as a box of candy from The Traffic and New England Railroad Club and a comfort bag would be given each man. The silence remained unbroken for a few minutes. Then men appeared stunned, but did not mention a word. Two weeks without letters or packages from home, and their hopes of some on Christmas Eve was a great disappointment! Then the song, "Put all your troubles in your kit bag, and smile, smile, smile," relieved the tension, and every man forgot the disappointment as they formed in line for the supper of potato salad, chicken bouillon, mayonnaise dressing, salmon with plum duff and sauce, cake, bread and cocoa.

That was where I again felt mighty proud to be with the men who could face such a disappointment and not mention a word about it while their every thought was of home and Christmas cheer and expectations for packages and mail from their own people—besides others from certain societies and organizations at home. Often disappointments bring out the best that is in a man. Somewhere in America are two people who I hope will receive the cards I mailed in return for the comfort bag and candy with my sincere thanks and appreciation for same. Little do they realize what those gifts really did mean to us that Christmas Eve. The entertainment was the best one I have ever attended anywhere. The spirit of the men when they realized their disappointment was magnificent to witness. Too much credit cannot be given Captain —, Lieutenants —, and — and the other men who devoted their energy and zeal to make the entertainment a success for the men. And as the men went back to Headquarters to prepare to go to their various stations, every man was of the opinion that the entertainment was just the proper idea on such a night, as it served to bring back memories of former ones at home.

Turkey for Dinner.

Before we left Headquarters we learned the turkeys had arrived and would be given out Christmas morning—too late to be cooked for our dinner. And our dinner arrived at 10:30 a. m. Christmas with our other rations and articles and the joys of bread. But we had thought it would be late and had made up a purse of 80 francs among 12 men here and purchased articles about 10 miles "down" from our station, leaving the chickens at the farm house where our Thanksgiving chickens were cooked. Three men went down for them Christmas morning, while three acted as cooks, and the other six followed regular routine of work. Our cookhouse was the scene of another dinner like the one we would have had at home. But we purchased it with our money. And tonight, as I write this while on duty, the snow falls in heavy flakes on a covering of four inches that has fallen during the day. It is now near midnight here. The hands of the clock will soon make Christmas day only a memory to us. At home it is now 4 p. m., the time when some would be on their way to a dance, theater, or a call at some friend's house. We hardly knew it was Christmas Day here. It was the same as any other day. The guns were talking with a language that did not conform to the meaning of Christmas Day.

Six Months in Retrospect.
Six months ago today we went into camp in America. Christmas is now only a memory to us. Since then the weather has changed. Snow has fallen at different periods, but not enough to cause any inconvenience to our usual routine. It has been very cold for the past three days. Today (December 28) has been very cold during the morning and afternoon. But what a different appearance tonight as I am about to be relieved! A light snow is falling, whirled along through the valley by a perfect hurricane. The cold is intense. The states seldom has had worse storms than the one now with us. Not a person is to be seen on the roads. The sentries are hugging the protection of whatever they can find that is large enough to shelter them. The stores are burning brightly in the huts as you pass, and you can see the fire coming out over the tops of the chimneys. The men must be happy to be inside and "keep the camp-fires burning bright." I did not envy them as I would soon be there also. But there are many who cannot be inside by the warm fires. What about those men in the trenches, on guard and patrol work and our men who are following their usual routine. Storms do not cause them to relax their vigilance or efficiency. The same system pursued in America on railroads is in operation here. And that alone is attained through, and requires efficiency. Experience increases efficiency and that is what the Railway Engineer Regiments have had for their foundation. You can see it everywhere in their discipline, neatness and initiative ability to overcome obstacles here that would prove a stumbling-block to others lacking initiative ability and determination.

Shadows As Well As Sunshine.

During the period of writing this letter, care has been used to eliminate all dates except in one or two incidents, and also to show the bright side of our life in France. But there are always dark sides to anyone in active service. Three times I was allowed to visit the Casualty Clearing House (Red Cross Hospital) and see several of my English friends there. Each visit caused me to 66 some thinking. Gouverneur Morris,

The famous journalist and writer of stories for the Cosmopolitan Magazine passed here during that period. I also met Private N. G. Markson, of Co. F, who lives at 74 West Union street, Kingston, N. Y., and we were "back home for one hour." I had not met him white at camp in America. There are many other incidents which will be remembered during the balance of my life. Remembrances to my friends. As I finish it is 12 o'clock midnight, December 30. It is 7 p. m. at home. The church bells are no doubt ringing out their message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to All!" and I remember the beautiful words:

"Tis Sunday! The same sweet bells are pealing.
And the same old flag flies o'er.
As the same sweet thoughts come stealing.
Of the same old friends once more.

Dinner in Peasant Home.

While in New York city with friends we would form a party and have dinner at some restaurant where the service and food was excellent. Over here we sometimes do the same—except that the parties are formed of men only—and dine at the same farm house where our chickens were cooked. It is similar to all French peasant's houses—very old and strong—and is yet in good condition. The Germans did not reach that village although they shelled it from a point three miles away before they retreated. The houses bear evidence of that fact. The residents of this farmhouse and two others near there remained—even during the period when others were fleeing to safer places. Through good luck the farm house was not struck—and through an interpreter we learned their story of want and privation during those stormy days. It is an interesting story; but I sometimes think that they wonder what our nature must be when we endeavor to learn their story. There is an elderly couple at this farm house; and a younger woman and a girl of nineteen years reside with them. We asked them for their names, and although they speak a few English words, we could not understand them. So we christened the young woman "Mathilda," and the girl "Georgiana." (They appear pleased as they answer when we call them by those names. Now we wonder did we christen them by their right names? Perhaps?) Well! To make a long story short, "Mathilda" is some cook! What she doesn't know about cooking would require a small book. Ach! Mein Gott! How she can cook? We know as we have been there several times, and can honestly state that the dinners were about all we could get away with—in English means "clear day tomorrow?" And we are some eaters when we (highball through the soup and out on the main line) to where the (heavy ent) are ready for us (to hitch to) with a (clear line ahead) for us (to draw them) to where they should be (placed). But our good cook "Mathilda" pulled a bloomer (mistake) on us the other day. She made some soup with plenty of garlic in it (Too much and too good.) We thought it was onion soup and (highballed through) as usual.

Then we finished the other courses in record time as we wanted to catch the "train train up" at 1:30 p. m. and save a long walk to our control station. We caught the train alright and on our way "up" we chatted with the men going on leave to Blighty (England). Their smiles changed to a disgusted look as they moved away from us. Still we were not wise to the reason. But when we arrived at our control-station we soon learned why they had left us so quick, when someone roared, "Phew! Garlic! Garlic! who in — has been eating garlic?" Our troubles had only commenced. We owned the ground we walked on. Everyone allowed us plenty of space until it was time for us to "turn in" for the night. Then they put on their gas masks and threatened to hang up a blanket and isolate our two bunks from the others and place a guard there to see that we did not tear it down before we slumbered;—unless we remembered where we were. We promised to go to bed and stay there;—and they gave us the laugh, and turned in too, with gas masks on, and buried their heads under the blankets—free from the beautiful perfume of garlic. It is a standing joke with them. I guess they will never forget it. I know I will be more careful of innocent-looking soup greens and onions in soup. When men are hungry they seldom consider that the future results will be for their comrades. But we take our hats off to "Mathilda!"

One Never Knows.
She is some cook—and then some? But no more garlic for "yours truly." No siree! Others can, but in the future I prefer some other sweet smelling, sweet tasting soup. Can you blame me after our experience? About a month ago I took out a policy for $10,000 for $7.30 monthly. Recent events shortly after warned me it was a good move to take out an insurance of $10,000 on myself. It comes in handy, as one never knows when?—

STOLEN WOOL CASE AGAIN IN COURT

Werbalowsky Suing Barney Millens for Amount of Money Paid for Wool Later Seized by State Police as Property of Another.
This morning the suit brought by Julius Werbalowsky against Barney Millens was adjourned by consent to next Monday morning in city court. The suit is brought to recover $42.70, the price paid for some wool and the expense Mr. Werbalowsky was put to when the wool was later seized by the police.
Some time ago, as related in the Freeman at the time, one of the state troopers called at police headquarters seeking assistance of the local police in recovering some wool that had been stolen from Chairman Hardenburgh of Exemption Board No. 2, from his farm at Stone Ridge.
Sergeant Philpney located the wool in the store house of Julius Werbalowsky and it was later seized by the state police on a search warrant. Later the matter came up before a justice of the peace and the wool was awarded to Mr. Hardenburgh.
Since then Mr. Werbalowsky has instituted suit against Mr. Millens on the grounds that he had bought the wool in the first place from Mr. Millens and had paid the latter $42.70.
Mr. Werbalowsky stated this morning that Mr. Millens had offered to pay him the sum mentioned, but he also wanted Mr. Millens to pay him for the expense he had been put to in justice's court when the wool was seized by the state police. What Mr. Millens's side of the case is, is not known.
The case promises to be rather interesting. Mr. Werbalowsky is represented by Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier, while Mr. Frank O'Reilly appears for Mr. Millens.

HOT SESSION OF REICHSRAT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Copenhagen, July 15.—That the session of the Austrian Reichsrat in Vienna will be a critical one today was indicated by the fact that Premier Von Seidler, after holding an audience with Emperor Charles, conferred in secret with the party leaders, said a dispatch from the Austrian capital.
It is rumored that the Polish leaders refused to attend the conference. It is understood that there will likely be serious debates like those held in the German Reichstag under the strictest censorship.

Child's Patriotism.
Dayton, Ore., July 16.—Juanita Dwell, eleven, cut off her beautiful chestnut curls to help win the war. She then notified an officer of the National Security League that she wished the hair to be sold in Portland, Oregon, and that the money be used in buying War Savings Stamps. Gertrude Atherton, the author, made the first bid on the tresses at $5. The child's explanatory letter is to be sold along with the hair to the highest bidder.

Action is Discontinued.
County Judge Jenkins has granted an order asked for by Raymond G. Cox, attorney for the defendant in the action brought by Sophia Politka against Annie Levinson and others, to have the suit discontinued without costs to any of the parties. H. Westlake Coons appeared for the plaintiff.

CALL FOR MECHANICS
Will Receive a Special Course of Training at Government Expense.
Local boards for Divisions 1 and 2 of Ulster County have received a bulletin from the adjutant general's office giving the particulars of call 268, for white men qualified for general military service, to receive a special course of mechanical training at New York University, New York city. Those accepted are to report at New York, August 15th.
Voluntary enlistment, under this call will close July 22. Men accepted will be trained as blacksmiths, carpenters or concrete workers. The 1918 registrants may volunteer under this call.

Little Waifs of the War—Italian Refugee Children
The object of this organization is to reach the immeasurable suffering throughout Italy effectively and immediately. In the present critical situation of Italy's civil population, with her enormous number of Refugees and other destitute, "hours mean lives," and relief to be effective must be immediate. Contributions received by us are transmitted by cable weekly, through the Italian Ambassador, to the authorized Italian Relief Societies, by whose experienced hands prompt assistance is dispensed.
The conditions in Italy today are tragic, beyond words. Almost everything is needed in the way of supplies, but the basic necessity is money, without which the work of rescue cannot continue. Unless a very large measure of such immediate relief reaches Italy, she may not be able, despite the heroic resistance of her thin gray line, to support much longer the strain of the War and our Common Cause may be endangered.
It is "now or never" for Italy. Help us to save her. Kindly send us a check now, making it payable to "The Immediate Relief to Italy Fund," and forwarding the same to our Banker, Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall St., New York City.

Honorary Officers of the Organization:
Honorary President, His Excellency, The Italian Ambassador.
Honorary Vice-President, Her Excellency, The Ambassadors.
Officers and Executive Committee:
President, Mr. Charles MacVeagh.
Vice-Presidents, Hon. Elihu Root, Mr. J. P. Morgan, Treasurer, Mr. Richard Trimble, Secretary, Mr. Charles S. Fairchild, Mr. George Wharton Pepper, Mr. Lewis Niles Roberts.

The Temperature.

The lowest point registered by The Freeman thermometer last night was 58 degrees. The highest point reached up until noon today was 80 degrees.

Weather Forecast.

Washington, July 16.—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probable showers; warmer tonight in extreme southwest portions, gentle to moderate southerly winds.

LOADING SHIPS.

Much Improvement Being Made in This Direction.

Economies of approximately 20 per cent in shipping weight and 50 per cent in shipplank space have resulted from improved methods of packing merchandise for overseas practice by the Army Quartermaster Corps. This is equivalent to about 2,500 tons space per month.

For the shipment of clothing and equipment, including such items as blankets, barrack bags, towels, shelter tent halves, bedding, and other dry goods, in addition to wearing apparel, haling has been substituted for boxing, and the weight of the lumber has been saved. The bales average 30 by 15 by 15 inches and weigh 90 pounds. They are bound with not less than four cold rolled unannealed steel bands. Burlap over waterproof heavy paper is used to cover the bales, and there are two "ears" on either end of the bale for handling.

Women are stevedores on the docks in France. There is a law they shall not be required to carry packages weighing more than 70 pounds. Packages shipped to the American Expeditionary Forces are standardized so they shall not weigh more than 70 pounds for handling by one woman carrier or more than 140 pounds by two women carriers. Men handle the heavier packages and the boxes that must be used instead of bales.

The Quartermaster Corps recommends to manufacturers supplying the army many similar economies in packing and shipping which will result in even more pronounced space and weight saving. Round cans and containers entail a waste in space of 25 per cent. Square containers are urged. It is estimated that every inch saved through bale compression is worth 65 cents in ship space.

The Sullivan brothers, twins, are sons of Mrs. James J. Sullivan of Rogers street, this city, where they are widely known and very popular. Their cheery and humorous letters to their mother which have been printed in The Freeman have made for them many new friends and cheered the heart of many a soldier's mother in Ulster county.

LITTLE MOTHER
LITTLE DADDIE

How Many Children in Kingston Will Adopt a French Child Left Fatherless in the World War?

The Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, pastor of Rondout Presbyterian Church, while attending the annual assembly of the Presbytery at Columbus, O., two weeks ago, suggested that the church start a movement for the adoption of French children who have been made fatherless in this war.

"It seems to me," said this patriotic clergyman, who in the busy time of large church matters, did not forget the suffering children, "that when the French children's forefathers had come to the aid of our forefathers at the critical period of our national life, the time had now come for us to help them."

He hadn't received any response to the suggestion. He says it seemed impracticable to bring the children over and was really the understanding of the matter as it was then discussed.

These children are not brought over here. Nor are they taken to any institution. They are left in the home provided and supported by thousands of their foster parents, little and big, and their own mothers are left to look after them. That is a guarantee of the care they will get.

Both mothers and children in their own homes or in the refuge they have obtained when they have been driven from their homes, are under the personal supervision of the American woman who carry to them the means for their support.

Every cent you put in to adopt a French child goes for clothing and feeding a French child.

If it is ten cents which supports one child one day that ten cents goes to that support.

The cost of doing all this is paid out of special funds. This is guaranteed to Ulster county people by the Woman's Home Defense of this county.

Ten cents adopts one French child in Sunny France for one day. Three dollars for one month.

All of Ulster county will be glad to learn from The Freeman the names of our children who are little foster mothers and little foster daddies.

Mrs. Charles De La Vergne, chairman of the home and foreign relief committee, is the treasurer for this fund, to whom it should be sent, care of the Woman's Home Defense, Main street, city.

A TREAT FOR THE BOYS.

Alderman Mann Ready to Hear From Prospective Contributors.

Heretofore when the National Army men have left for camp Alderman Mann has presented them with a supply of fruit. The next contingent will be so large that the alderman thinks others should be invited to join in so that the supply of fruit, candy, tobacco and cigars will be ample to last the boys for a few days. Anyone desiring to contribute should consult Alderman Mann either in person or by telephone without delay.

New York's Iron Cow.

New York, July 16.—Battery Park now has an "iron cow" which gives pure, rich milk for two cents a glass to all the poor of that part of Manhattan. Soldiers, sailors and members of the Coast Guard daily in the park need only to wear their uniforms to get milk without charge. The daily rush is so great that many soldiers and sailors take delight in helping the "iron cow" assistants in washing the glasses and serving the welcome beverage. And with the milk-drinking people of that part of Manhattan Nathan Straus, philanthropist, who is solely responsible for the "iron cow," is nothing less than a hero.

Whose Flivver?
An abandoned 1915 Ford car was found on the west end of Dyke and Tongore road by W. C. Davis of New York. The license number was 680-319 and the car number 591,060. There was no gasoline and the tires were flat.

FOURTH LOAN.

Bonds Will Be Ready For Immediate Delivery.

Bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan are now being turned out by the thousands daily by the Treasury's Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The bonds are similar in form and design to those of the third loan, and space has been left on each bond for insertion of the exact terms of the bonds.

It is believed that a sufficient number of the bonds will be ready to make possible immediate delivery of all bonds of the fourth loan as they are purchased.

Canning Plums.

By Laura Eufum.
(Domestic Science expert of the National War Garden Commission, Washington, D. C.)

The Greengage, Yellow Egg and Lombard are good varieties of plums used for canning. Sound, firm fruit should be selected, not quite prime for table use. Stem, yust, grade and prick each plum to prevent bursting. Use a large needle for pricking which may be omitted when a large quantity is to be canned and time is limited. Send a 2-cent stamp for the free canning manual which the National War Garden Commission, Washington, will send to you upon request.

Pack plums in jar and cover with boiling syrup of medium grade. This is prepared by using one part sugar to two parts water. Put on rubber and top. Adjust top bail or screw top on with thumb and little finger.

Sterilize 15 minutes in hot water bath or ten minutes at five to ten pounds' steam pressure. Remove, seal tight and cool. The commission will gladly answer any questions written on one side of the paper and sent in a self-addressed stamped envelope.

OUR TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Just a word to express our appreciation for the support and patronage we have received during 21 years of business life.

We frequently hear people say "I have bought nearly everything I needed at this store ever since it started." Others say "I didn't know there was such a store in Rondout. I'm glad I came and you'll see me again soon."

Our growth year after year has been steady and substantial. Starting our twenty-second page of business history we can truly say we'll do our best to serve you faithfully with good merchandise at the lowest possible prices. We believe Kingston has a large future. The Rondout section has awakened to new life and activities scarcely dreamed of during the years of peaceful slumber.

We're just beginning to realize our possibilities, the future depends upon our own efforts. With everybody working and all boosting the coming years will be the best ever.
